By ELLEN THORBECKE
(Illustrated by Schiff in colour)

This is a book which will provide a feast of enjoyment, for not only does it contain authentic information about Shanghai in general, but presents it in an unusual form, dressed up in vivid coloured sketches by Schiff, who is so well known for his clever caricatures. To the Editor of the
"North-China Daily News"

Sir,—Many countries and cities have used the gambling instincts of their populations to secure a permanent source of revenue in public lotteries. This could well be done in Shanghai as the instinct is evidently not unknown here.

The best system is that of the "Series Lottery." Compared with the simple lottery it secures a larger income for the promoters and can offer more and better prizes.

In Shanghai it would be the method of choice for the following reasons:

(a) It offers the greatest guarantee of regular and dependable revenue.
(b) It can fulfil the obligations of the Council towards the participants.
(1) by adjusting gaming stakes to suit prevailing economic conditions,
(2) by making public the manner in which the stake money is available as prizes,
(3) by controlling the selling of tickets, distribution of prizes.

Apart from favourable and sure profits for the Municipal Council, which may be increased by clever and careful expert management, also other special advantages will be attained on a very large scale from which the economics of this city will benefit. These special advantages of an economic nature which are connected with a series lottery, and of which in most cases the general public is absolutely unaware, are summarized as follows:

In the first place attention is drawn to the fact that the takings resulting from a series lottery represent an entirely voluntary contribution on the part of that part of the population from which they are drawn, and that there is as little necessity for the tax screw to be put into action, which enjoys such great unpopularity all round, as there is for the just as unpopular tax collector to bother the players.

The series lottery contributes to a considerable extent towards enlivening the economics as well as the monetary turnover. The gaming stakes to be paid every month are firstly paid into the Lottery Fund (Municipal Fund) where they are accumulated, in order again to be paid out gradually within the separate series, the greatest bulk, however, being paid out only in the main—and final drawing in form of winnings. Until they are again paid out as winnings, the gaming stakes, which may amount to millions, may be temporarily utilized by the Lottery Fund (Municipal Fund) for purposes of this city and economics. The interest alone, which results from this procedure, may under certain circumstances be sufficient for covering the entire costs of the administration of the lottery.

Until the gaming stakes to be collected by collectors of the lottery fund fall due, the collectors will, for reasons of security, temporarily deposit the stakes collected at reliable banks, which in turn may also utilize these individual amounts temporarily in the interest of the economics. The acquisition and upkeep for every new lottery requires a very extended propaganda, which is not merely restricted to offers made on the business premises and by means of advertisements in the daily press, but must extend also to offers sent by post. In this manner the postal authorities will derive a considerable amount of profit from the sale of postage stamps to which are added the fees for the monthly payments of the stakes made by the players to the collectors, and also the fees for the many parcels containing the lottery tickets and winners' lists sent by the lottery management and the collectors for each series, which amount to considerable sums.

A series lottery will produce a new source of income i.e. that of the Municipal Lottery Collector. By the appointment of collectors and sub-collectors (as well as street selling agents) many citizens will be offered a possibility of establishing a good and sound means of existence or of improving their own financial position, which in turn results in an increase of revenues for the Municipal Council in the form of income tax.

For the stationery and printing trade a series lottery will mean a considerable enlivenment by providing favourable possibilities for making profits. The printing of the lottery tickets, lottery plans and winners' lists alone as well as the material for the press (list of numbers and winnings, minutes of drawings etc.) will produce permanent and firm municipal orders of great volume and long duration. To this must be added the numerous books, lists, forms and other printed matters needed by the lottery management and the collectors. The propaganda, carried out by the collectors, which is repeated for each lottery, requires printed matters in quantities of which an outsider has no idea whatever. In this connection large orders are placed which are distributed among the stationery and printing trade. In connection with propaganda also the profit perhaps made by address bureaus in return for the supplying of addresses as well as that made by manufacturers of envelopes must be mentioned. Moreover, the profit to be made by the vendors of newspapers and periodicals as well as by the advertising agencies for advertisements and propaganda sheets sent as enclosures by the collectors deserve to be mentioned in this connection.

It will be prudent when first introducing a series lottery, to set about it in a careful and reserved manner and not to expect too much, for it is better to start on a small scale and gradually to extend the business, as in this manner considerable disappointment will be avoided. Further it is necessary first to gather experience in view of the fact that conditions to be considered are different in every country, and the lottery should be consolidated and developed only as the result of experiences already made. Even though the system of a series lottery itself is fixed, its application nevertheless is varied and adaptable, and success in this case as well as in the case of every other commercial enterprise just consists in keeping the lottery in as flexible a condition as possible in order to be able at any time to adapt it to the economic conditions and the fluctuations they are subject to.

Further working out, in particular the preparation of a draft prospectus for a municipal series lottery will be practicably possible when a precise attitude has been expressed in authoritative quarters.

I indulge the hope the Municipal Council will once more take the lottery question into consideration.

Ford's Decision:
Another Peace Ship Coming?

To the Editor of the
"North-China Daily News"

Sir,—I note with extreme surprise and even a little regret, the caption in today's issue of the "North-China Daily News" "Ford will not work for foreigners." This can only mean one thing, that Ford is going out of the export field.

During the last 30 years Ford products have been supplied anywhere and everywhere, regardless of wars. Even during the last several years of the Sino-Japanese War many thousands of vehicles have been supplied to the Japanese and the Chinese.

I note the latest financial report of the Ford Motor Co. which shows assets to the value of US$691,911,949. I should imagine that a very considerable proportion of this amount has been made by supplying Ford products to foreigners, particularly the British Empire where these products have had a deservedly large business.

There is, of course, one other alternative and that is that possibly Mr. Henry Ford is considering building another ship to start a peace offensive in Europe, the same as he did in the last Great War.

A.O.F.C. Liquidation:
Why the Delay?

To the Editor of the
"North-China Daily News"

Sir,—Wonder what is holding up the distribution of a dividend by the liquidator of the American-Oriental Finance Corporation, American-Oriental Banking Corporation, and Raven Trust Co. Nearly four months ago, through the reorganization plan of the Asia Realty Co., the American-Oriental Finance Corporation received roughly Ch.$44,000 as its share and the American-Oriental Banking Corporation approximately Ch.$416,000, but so far not a penny has been handed out to the creditors, despite the fact that during last April several correspondents wrote to your esteemed journal about the matter. The writer is one of many who feels that as procrastination has had a long innings, it is not out of place to request the liquidator to use blitzkrieg methods, with a view to unloading the credit balances for the benefit of the unfortunate investors of the companies concerned. Failing which an explanation will be appreciated.

Ireads Quick.

Two Home Runs Give Tigers Decision Over Browns

Only Three Hits But Circuit Clouts Outweigh St. Louis' Seven Bingles; Greenberg in Form

New York, June 28.

DEL Baker's Detroit Tigers made only three hits in a night offering at St. Louis but two of them were circuit blows, one by second baseman Charley Gehringer in the third and another by big Hank Greenberg in the sixth, and these were enough to beat the St. Louis Browns, 2-1. Buck Newsom allowed the Browns seven safe blows, but he was the usual master when there were men on bases. The victory enabled the Tigers to gain half a game on the idle Cleveland Indians. Incidentally, the Tiger-Brown game was the only one on the American League schedule.

At Philadelphia last night, the New York Giants trimmed the Phillies, 7-0, on the strength of the Terrymen's fifteen hits and superb mound work by Hal Schumacher who limited the "Convention City" boys to three scattered hits for his shutout.

Catcher Harry Danning and veteran outfielder Mel Ott paced the Giant attack with three singles apiece.

When Mixed Grill Lost to Crocks

As the polo season progresses here, further successes are expected to be won by the Crocks who were led to a decisive victory over Mixed Grill by R. B. Moller on Saturday. Some action in that game is shown above. No matches have been arranged for this afternoon but pick up chukkers may be played if the weather permits.

Jottings from Cricket Leagues at Home

Many Leading Players Go to Bradford

As in the last war when some of the teams were up to the strength of good county sides the Bradford League has once again attracted many of the leading players, as this list will show: Baildon Green have H. Fisher and Arthur Mitchell, who is playing as an amateur; E. Martindale and H. Crick are attached to Bingley; Brighouse have W. Barber; F. Berry, of Surrey, is turning out for East Bierley; G. G. Macaulay is Farsley's chief bowler; Keighley have E. Paynter and Place, of Lancashire. With George Pope and D. Smith, of Derbyshire, Smailes and Dyson, Lidget Green should be exceptionally strong; the Australian, B. J. Tobin, is Pudsey St. Lawrence's star; W. Bowes and A. Pope are the Saltaire. (Sidney Barnes' old side) bowlers; L. Constantine is the great attraction at Windhill, while Undercliffe have Arthur Wood and T. A. Jacques. N. W. D. Yardley has joined Pudsey St. Lawrence.

Paynter scored 60 for Keighley, who beat Spen Victoria by 113 to 85, and Mitchell made 44 for Baildon Green against Bradford, who found Fisher, seven for 20, too good for them. A Pope, with 39 and three wickets for 25 and Bowes, four wickets for 24, played a big part in Saltaire's win over Farsley. Macaulay's seven wickets for the losers cost 62. Dyson was out for 0 for Lidget Green, but the Derbyshire pair, D. Smith and G. Pope, scored 27 and 22 respectively. T. A. Jacquer six 21 against Queensbury gave Undercliffe an easy victory; Constantine's share in Windhill's win over Great Horton was 15 runs and four wickets for 24.

Hits Home Run

Paid U.S.$45,000 for signing a contract with the Athletics at the beginning of the season, Bennie McCoy is batting his money's worth according to latest baseball reports.

Hutton Plays For Salts

L. Hutton turned out for Salts against Drighlington in the Yorkshire Council, but was clean bowled when he had scored 12.

The joint champions of the Birmingham League in 1939, Aston Unity and Mitchells & Butlers, played the Rest of the League and a most enjoyable match was left drawn. The Rest included C. H. Palmer, who played so well for Worcestershire last season and C. C. Goodway, an excellent wicket-keeper who has been given his Warwickshire cap.

Without many of their famous professionals the Lancashire League may lose a little of its glamour this summer, but it is still full of very good cricketers. R. Parkin, who has not quite succeeded in getting into the Lancashire side, is professional to Church this year. His 44 not out and six for 24 gave his team a win over Nelson. For the second year in succession L. Warburton, the East Lancashire professional, opened the season with a score of 71 not out. East Lancashire easily beat Burnley, Warburton being to the fore with a double of 38 and five wickets for 29. —"The Cricketer."

Olympic High Jumper Joins R. A. F.

London, June 28.

Stanley West, the Olympic high jumper and Great Britain's best exponent for years, is in the Royal Air Force as a physical training instructor. For some time West, who is a travelling salesman, has had little opportunity for training, but he hopes to get plenty of time to get fit and enable him to better his best jump of 6 ft. 3 in.—Reuter.

Little Hope Held for Polo Today

Hungjao Club Opening May Be Postponed

BY "THE CHASER"

The consistent rain during the week and the shower yesterday afternoon make polo today very doubtful indeed. Only one name was received by the Honorary Field Secretary who was therefore not in a position to make up any games for this afternoon. Play will be composed of pick-up chukkers and will commence at 4.15 p.m. Teams who have arranged matches between themselves should advised the Field Secretary who will make the necessary arrangements for them to play.

As the weather and ground conditions are so doubtful, members should telephone the Club before sending their ponies down. The Ground Committee will inspect the field before 1 o'clock and members may enquire from the Number One Boy (telephone 97187) shortly after this time.

Conditions may also cause the postponement of the opening of the Hungjao Polo Club who hope to open their ground for play tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. If the ground is open players may communicate with the Field Secretary of the Club, Krikoriantz, by telephoning 22012 and make arrangements with him regarding play. Members are advised against going down to the ground in the hope of being able to "fill-in" as all chukkers will be arranged in advance.

Players are also requested not to use the playing field for practice and should do all their practising on the special piece of ground allotted for this purpose.

Zero Club to Meet Country Club

Lawn Bowls Match to Be Held on Monday

Country Club will encounter the Zero Club, newcomers in this particular field of sport, in a lawn bowls match on Monday next. The match is to be played on the greens of the Country Club and will begin at 4 p.m. Considerable interest will be attached to this contest owing to the fact that the Zero Club are of unknown quality when it comes to lawn bowls. Their opponents on Monday will comprise the following Country Club players.

C. W. Porter, Ian A. Beith, J. Davidson, E. F. Bateman; W. P. Lambe, P. W. Massey, P. D. G. Gain and D. Wheldon.

Don Bradman Joins Air Force

Adelaide, June 28.

Don Bradman, the famous cricketer, has enlisted in the Royal Australian Air Force. He is waiting to be called up as an air crew member.—Reuter.

Football Position At Home Analyzed

Very Few Clubs Manage To Pay Expenses; Call Elsewhere for Manpower

London, June 3.

There were only three hundred spectators at the Notts County-Lincoln match. The visiting club had to borrow Cooper and Moulson from their hosts. Seventeen years old J. D. Smith was again good for Leicester, though he couldn't score against Walsall. McCulloch (Derby County) and Napier (Sheffield Wednesday) helped Falkirk in Scottish championship test, but could not stop Rangers who have won all the major honours their side of the Border.

Hawkins, York centre-half was carried off on a stretcher before the interval at Ayresome Park. The visitors' ten men scored first but Middlesbrough came along with six goals in the second half. Newport was in a hurry. Six up on Torquay at half time; grabbed another five when Wright (outside left) went into goal for the injured Crang. Little Stevenson, Irish box of tricks, scored "hat-trick" for Everton in last five minutes at Old Trafford where Manchester United fielded nine men from outside clubs. It was all square in Carlisle-Blackpool duel till Eph Dodds was ordered off. Carlisle took their chance and Moir scored a couple of goals to win the points. Though off for a time with a suspected nose fracture, Frith came back to help Coventry beat Luton by 5-1.

According to George Allison of the Arsenal writing in the "Sunday Express":—

"Although the League chiefs have postponed the annual meeting originally fixed for London on June 8th, we are all agreed that some effort should be made to carry on in spite of rapidly changing conditions in more vital spheres. However, the folly of attempting to fulfil any imposing League scheme is so obvious that clubs will be compelled to adopt further modified measures. No new date for the League meeting has been fixed. League officials are obviously waiting to see how events of the next few weeks affect the Soccer situation. When the conference is held, expect to find Manchester City proposing that there should be five League sections as against the four put forward. Even this modified scheme seems too ambitious. It is not only a question of whether players will be available. We have to face the fact that public support may not be forthcoming. How many clubs have paid their way this season? I can tell you that six matches in which I was directly interested produced nothing net. Indeed, there was a loss on them! The increased call for man-power for the Services and industry demands extreme moderation in the obligations we undertake."

"Manchester City's scheme provides for compulsory fixtures and for a cup competition similar in many details to that put forward by the League themselves. They propose that the players should be paid 30/- a match with the addition of £1. bonus for a win and 10s for a draw. Visiting clubs are to receive 25 per cent. of net gates in all matches as against the 50 per cent. operating in Regional football this season. What about Brentford? Under the scheme they will have to leave London for every one of their away matches!

Court of Sports at New York

1,000 Learn Technique of Big League Baseball; Joe McCarthy, Atley Donald Answer Questions

AS Christy Walsh, sports director, declared, it was only "fitting and proper that the manager of the world champion Yankees open the 1940 series of baseball classes at the World's Fair" yesterday, and Marse Joe McCarthy, flanked by Atley Donald and Arndt Jorgens, came out of the inaugural session with colours flying. It was a fine performance by the Yankee trio and was appreciated by 1,000 youngsters at the Court of Sports, says the New York "Times" of June 2.

Although he and his fellow "professors" were due shortly at the Stadium for the Yankees' engagement with the Browns. McCarthy doffed his hat and coat, as did the others, and in his shirtsleeves lectured while Donald and Jorgens demonstrated technique.

Yesterday's forum featured a lesson in the wrong and right ways of pitching and catching. Directed by McCarthy, who told the class, "I'm a fine one to tell you anything about baseball, considering the way the Yankees have been going," Jorgens showed how a catcher should take his stance behind the plate, stressing the need for crouching on tiptoe, the art of catching pitch-outs and throwing out runners.

How Not to Balk

Donald then demonstrated pitching technique, teaching the students an overhand and a sidearm delivery, how to pick off runners and how to be comfortable on the pitching rubber. McCarthy then asked Donald to show the various ways of committing a balk and how to avoid them.

McCarthy jocularly explained, "Of course, sometimes Atley doesn't pitch good at all, but that's to be expected of the best of them."

With 7,000 students registered, these classes, which will include lectures by managers and players of all sixteen big league clubs, are expected to attract at least 50,000 youngsters through the season. That was the approximate total during 1939.

Moose McCormick, one time great Giant pinch hitter, is again the school's "coach." After Walsh and Harvey D. Gibson, chairman of the board, officially greeted the students, McCormick discussed at length the methods of settling up a defence explaining the switches of infielders and outfielders for right and lefthanded batters.

McCarthy Asks One

Before the programme was concluded about two dozen boys fired questions at McCarthy, Donald and Jorgens, none of which proved embarrassing to the trio. One little fellow said he lived in Brooklyn, and Marse Joe countered with "How are the Dodgers doing?" That caused a big laugh.

Following are some of the questions and answers:—

Q—Who is more valuable, Joe DiMaggio or Bobby Feller?
A (by McCarthy)—DiMaggio.
Q—Who will be the best left-handed batter in the American League?
A (by McCarthy)—Charley Keller.
Q—Who will be the best pitcher in the American League.
A (by McCarthy)—Charley Ruffing.
Q—Who will win the American League pennant?
A (by McCarthy, Donald, Jorgens and 98 per cent. of the student body)—The Yankees!

"Class dismissed," said Walsh, and McCarthy and his aides rushed toward the Bronx, probably hoping seven other clubs in the junior circuit felt the same way about it.

Golf Drive Costs £100

Boom in Pleasure Boating

Sudden Growth Shows Over 7,200 Yachts in U.S. And Canada; Power Craft Most Popular

THAT pleasure boating is boombing is clearly indicated by the thirty-eighth annual edition of Lloyd's Register. The register lists more than 7,200 yachts within the United States and Canada, the largest number ever included in an American yacht register since the first fifty-five-page booklet was issued in 1872. In it 401 craft were listed. The register should be particularly cheering to American industrialists who build the boats, engines and accessories that go to make up the great American pleasure fleet.

There has been an increase of sixty-four yacht clubs and associations. Lloyd's principal surveyor pertinently points out "the need that has arisen for additional mooring and landing facilities seems to be obvious."

Regarding the Future

Elsewhere on the horizon the boom of pleasure boating is prompting prophets to ponder about the future. Morley Cooper, writing in Jim Gillespie's "The Boating Industry" about the next five years, sees the sudden increase in pleasure craft making the mooring problem in harbours really acute.

Along with his prophecies about an annual increase of 100,000 pleasure craft and large-scale production of low-priced cabin cruisers 25 to 32 feet long, Cooper declares "when boating takes its place among the billion-dollar industries of America, it will cease to be pushed around. Harbourmasters and dockage engineers will quit relegating yacht anchorages to odd corners of our bays. These authorities will be forced to set aside whole sections of their harbours for the exclusive use of pleasure craft, even though this means enlarging our existing harbours and creating new ones."

Approximately 60 per cent. of the new yachts launched during the past year were power craft. Lloyd's editors say power boats are "a class which is finding increasing favour with many new converts to yachting in its less exciting but perhaps more pleasurable form." Most of the remaining 40 per cent. of new boats, moreover, were those powered with auxiliary motors.

Lloyd's found no additions during the year in the medium or large sizes of sail-racing yachts, either in the America's Cup Class or under the Universal (Herreshoff) rules.

Old Schooner Is Listed

There were, of course, several ocean-racing-class newcomers, including Robert W. Johnson's auxiliary yawl Good News. A unique listing in Lloyd's is Sea Fox, a 110-foot schooner built of iron in 1888, now returning to yachting in her fifty-third year after being engaged in trade shipping for decades. Burwell B. Smith is the owner.

A number of large power yachts will be found to have been transferred to Canadian registry, presumably for war service. Moreover, one of the largest of the new yachts listed is owned by a Canadian, W. M. Crawford of Vancouver. This is a 104-foot twin Diesel craft named Fifer.

Another, if smaller, type of pleasure boat that is below the size listed in yacht registers is being hailed along with other evidences of America's boating boom. This is the outboard. Many a yachtsman has cut his deep water teeth by acquiring an outboard, learning to hanker for the sea every year when summer comes around, and gradually promoting himself up the scale of navigation by successively owning inboard runabouts, then small cruisers and eventually a sturdy offshore craft.

Some Outboard Figures

Although outboard racing had a few pioneering experiments back in 1925, its national championships are just starting their second decade.

Based on the progress since 1929 when country-wide titles were won at a Peoria regatta, Mulroy says the "ceiling" in speeds has by no means been reached. The ever increasing number of inland lakes and waterways recently made available for pleasure boating because of government dams has converted thousands of new comers to outboards and larger craft.

One of these days—who knows?—a daredevil racing pilot may achieve a hundred miles an hour. Jean Dupuy, the French newspaper publisher, has driven an outboard 79.04 miles an hour and since 1930 outboards have been going fifty miles an hour and better.

A comparison of the official outboard one-mile racing speeds in recent years shows what the growth in interest in this sport has accomplished:

Class	1929.	1940.
A	26.31	48.92
B	37.75	54.81
C	39.70	60.56
F	44.54	63.27

British Arms Production Greatly Increased

Minister of Supply Praises Workers For Great Effort; Situation Becoming More Satisfactory

London, June 28.

THE Minister of Supply, Mr. Herbert Morrison, reported "encouraging increases in the rate of arms production to the House of Commons last night. At the same time he uttered a warning that the last thing he wished the House and country to believe was that things were satisfactory.

"They are not," he said. "They could not be satisfactory in the circumstances of the case, but I can only say that they are becoming nearer and nearer to satisfaction as the days pass along."

Asked whether he would consider giving more precise details of production when the House went into secret session later, Mr. Morrison said he would consider the suggestion, but the House would forgive him if he exercised reasonable care.

The Minister emphasized that he took over a running concern. It was not for him to say whether the layout of the Department was right or wrong. Moreover, there were decisions in policy which vitally affected supply.

Substantial Increases

Mr. Morrison announced that the increase in output of cruiser and infantry tanks for June compared with April was 115 per cent., and carriers 64 per cent.

In a wide range of guns, the increase was from about 50 per cent. in two items up to as much as 228 per cent. for another item. The small arms output showed increases ranging between 49 and 186 per cent. The output of ammunition of various kinds showed an increase ranging between 35 and 420 per cent.—(Cheers).

Mr. Morrison did not claim credit for this "encouraging spurt of production during these critical weeks." It was due to a spurt at the Ministry, and particularly to the fine response made by working people to the appeals of Ministers.

"I shall give one instance of the new spirit," Mr. Morrison added. "On June 19 I gave orders for millions of a certain weapon. Already the output has reached nearly 250,000 a week, namely, between four to five times the previous production, and that output will grow."

Truth About Tanks

Fundamental changes in production, the Minister proceeded, had been carried through both in regard to machine-tools and tanks. The truth about tanks was that there had been no clarification what tanks had been wanted. Argument could not go on for ever. It had now been arranged for requirements to be notified definitely with all possible speed through one focal point.

In the meantime, they were concentrating on the greatest possible output of those tanks which proved to be satisfactory without worrying about over-elaboration and design—frills and fancy pieces that were not vital.

Home machine-tool production had increased by 50 per cent. A total of 80,000 machine-tools was being made available from all sources. About £3,000,000 worth of machine-tools, ordered by Britain for France from the United States and Canada, would be diverted to Britain.

The raw material position was broadly satisfactory. Very big orders had been placed in America and elsewhere for raw material. It was better to have too much than risk too little.

Ready For Possible Siege

"We must face possible siege conditions," Mr. Morrison said.

Imports of munitions from the Empire and the United States were growing. Canada was vigorously cooperating with Britain. Orders to a value of nearly £5,000,000 had been placed in the last few weeks. Australia had sent large quantities of small arms and munitions from her own stocks, including bombs, shells and fuses.

The whole surplus capacity of India had been taken up, and the Indian Government was now bringing into production various private firms. Very big things had been done in India, and a most excellent spirit existed there.

Requirements from America, Mr. Morrison informed the House, fell into two classes.

"Urgent immediate requirements are being bought, in many cases, from stocks, including field-glasses, Thomson guns, magazines and ammunition, together with rifles and machineguns.

"For our long-term needs, we are obtaining, wherever we can, suitable existing weapons in America with all possible speed. I have to thank the American authorities for their ready co-operation in this matter. We shall need also very large requirements in respect of machine-tools and in connection with the tank and gun programme.

"These are being dealt with by the Purchasing Commission in America, a highly-equipped body having appropriate contacts in the United States and acting in conjunction with the Government of the United States. We must proceed to a long-term programme in the United States, which means that there must be co-operation with our Purchasing Commission for certain necessary adaptations in American industry."

For the next few months, Mr. Morrison said, his Ministry would concentrate quite properly on immediate production, but they were not forgetting the longer view, so that they were prepared for offensive as well as defensive action.

Immediately after Mr. Morrison's speech, the House went into secret session.—Reuter.

Yonai Unpopular with "Certain Power"

Newspaper Opposition to Prince Konoye's Moves

Tokyo, June 27.

The greatest danger confronting the Yonai Cabinet of Japan is its loss of favour in the eyes of "a certain country," Tsunego Baba, well-known political writer, states in the "Yomiuri Shimbun," rightist newspaper.

"There is a certain school of thought," Mr. Baba states, "which argues that the Yonai Government must go out because a certain foreign country does not regard it with favour.

"However, we would prefer to have the Yonai Cabinet remain in office rather than have a government which would suit the tastes of that certain foreign country more than our own," the writer declares.

"As a matter of fact, on all sides I hear expressions of the hope that the Yonai Cabinet will remain in office. This is a direct reaction to demands that there be established a government "more suitable to a certain country," and that reaction, I think, is one typical of the Japanese people."

Mr. Baba, in the same article, criticizes beliefs that the formation of a single party system in Japan will bring about an immediate fundamental change in the country's political structure. He points out that it took more than 10 years for the Nazi party to be fully and solidly established in Germany.—Havas.

Whangpoo Dredging Progressing

Dredging work on a 57-acre sandbank in the Whangpoo River between the Jukong Wharf, on the Shanghai city side, and Black Point, on the Pootung side, by the harbour office of the Maritime Customs is progressing satisfactorily, the "Tairiku Shimpo" reported yesterday.

When the dredging is completed in four months, the paper reported, a 30,000-ton steamer will be able to navigate the stream.

According to the daily, a dredger is working for 10 hours each day on the north end of the sandbank. The depth of the river at this point is now 27 feet, at ebb tide, but when the dredging is completed, it will be 30 feet.

Japanese Near Indo-China

Advancing Units Expected At Border Last Night; No Thought of Invasion

Canton, June 28.

It is expected that Chennankuan, on the border of French Indo-China, will be occupied this evening and contact made with the French at Namkwan, in Indo-China, the spokesman of the Japanese Army in South China declared this afternoon.

He added that Fengcheng, halfway between Lungchow and Indo-China, on the highway to Kwangsi, was taken this morning. Japanese troops from Shunchun took Pukuh, ten kilometres to the north along the railway, this morning.

The spokesman assured Reuter that the concentrations of Japanese troops on the Indo-China and Hongkong borders were purely for the purpose of preventing supplies from reaching Chungking. There was no thought of invasion of neutral territories.

Japanese troops, the spokesman went on, would remain on the borders for sometime until they were satisfied that no supplies were filtering through.

Contrary to certain reports, the spokesman said British and Japanese military authorities had not yet reached an agreement concerning the future dispositions of Japanese troops on the Kowloon border, but an agreement had been reached regarding the repatriation of refugees.—Reuter.

Inspectors Leave

Tokyo, June 28.

The second party of Japanese officials comprising clerks of the Foreign Office and army officers, who will supervise the prohibition by the French Indo-China authorities of the transportation of war supplies to the Chiang Kai-shek regime, left here at 10.30 o'clock this morning by train en route to Hanoi.

Meanwhile, the first group headed by Major-General Issagu Nishihara which left the Akeno airfield, Miye Prefecture, this morning arrived at Fukuoka at 11.30 o'clock and immediately left for Taihoku, Formosa, in three planes, according to reports reaching here from Fukuoka.

They will stay overnight at Taihoku and hop off for Hanoi tomorrow morning.—Domei.

Understanding Unaltered

Tokyo, June 28.

On the strength of an assurance given by the French Ambassador, M. Arsene Henry, yesterday afternoon, the understanding between Japan and France in regard to French Indo-China will remain unaltered, despite the change in the Governor-General of Indo-China, the spokesman of the Foreign Office declared at a press conference here this morning.

The French Ambassador called on Mr. Masayuki Tani, the Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs, at 5 p.m. yesterday, and assured him that the change in the Governor-General of French Indo-China, as decided by the French Government at Bordeaux on June 25, would never alter the understanding reached between Japan and France regarding Indo-China, according to the spokesman.

Questioned regarding a press report in Hongkong, that trouble might possibly start between Vice-Admiral Jean Decoux, the Governor-General appointed by the Bordeaux government, and the retiring Governor-General General Catroux, who is reported to have pledged allegiance to the National Committee organized in London by General de Gaulle, the spokesman reiterated: "In our eyes, there is only one Government of France, and that has been transferred from Paris to Bordeaux."—Reuter.

No Chinese Protest on Tientsin Agreement

London, June 28.

"No protest has been made by the Chinese Government or on their behalf in regard to the Tientsin agreement," stated Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a written reply in the House of Commons yesterday.

"Copies of the relevant document were, as a matter of courtesy, communicated to the United States' Government in advance of its publication," he added.—Reuter.

Italo-Japanese Talks on N.E.I.

Mr. Naotake Sato to See Italian, Reich Leaders On Colony Questions

Rome, June 28.

The Japanese Ambassador Extraordinary, Mr. Naotake Sato, who came to Italy recently to head a commercial and friendship mission, is at present carrying on conversation with Rome and Berlin regarding the Japanese position in connection with the disposition of the Netherlands East Indies and Indo-China, it was authoritatively learned here last night.

Diplomatic quarters said they understood that Mr. Sato, who arrived in Berlin a few days ago, will confer with high German officials soon to discuss the Netherlands East Indies question. He will then return to Rome, where he has already engaged in conversations with members of the Italian Government concerning Indo-China, these quarters said.

Reliable sources said that, before leaving for Berlin, Mr. Sato, who was at Venice with the Japanese commercial mission when Italy declared war, has since come to Rome and conferred personally with Premier Benito Mussolini before leaving for Berlin.

Mr. Sato is understood to have been in constant touch with the Japanese Foreign Minister, Mr. Hachiro Arita, since Italy entered the war, and has received new instructions from Tokyo since the surrender of France. Mr. Sato was accompanied on his Axis shuttle by Viscount S. Matono, of the Japanese Foreign Office.—United Press.

Talks in Germany

Tokyo, June 28.

Commenting on reports that Mr. Naotake Sato, who headed the Japanese Economic Mission to Italy, and who now is in Berlin en route home via Siberia, may have talks with German leaders, Mr. Yakichiro Suma, Foreign Office spokesman, declared today that Mr. Sato may take advantage of his visit to Berlin to confer with Chancellor Adolf Hitler or the German Foreign Minister, Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop.—Domei.

French Reorganizing Supplies

Petain Government Tackles Urgent Problems

Bordeaux, June 28.

The French Government is now absorbed in a number of urgent problems, particularly that of organizing supplies throughout France.

Members of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies now in Bordeaux met yesterday and examined questions concerning the organization of labour, industrial mobilization and refugee problems.

The appointment of a "Minister for Demobilization" to handle the refugee question, and the demobilization and eventual re-employment of industrial and agricultural workers in reconstruction work were discussed.

The Deputies passed a resolution of "unfailing loyalty to Marshal Petain, head of the French Government."—Reuter.

Nationalist Party Move in Japan

Plans Will Be Announced By Prince Konoye After Manchoukuo Ruler Leaves

Tokyo, June 28.

Prince Ayamaro Konoye, who recently resigned as President of the Privy Council to assume the leadership in the formation of a new national political party designed to strengthen Japan's home front, will make public his plans immediately after Emperor Kangte of Manchoukuo completes his visit to Japan. The Manchoukuo Sovereign will leave Japan for Hsinking on July 6.

Prince Konoye, qualified political observers here said, will not make any fixed arrangements with the existing political parties, but will send invitations to representative personalities in military, government, financial, journalistic and other circles, as well as to leading members of the political parties, as individuals, requesting their attendance at a meeting which will lay the cornerstone of the projected national party.

During this meeting, Prince Konoye will, it was added, urge the necessity of establishing a new and powerful political front. He was expected also to express his belief regarding the mission and immediate aims of the proposed national party in which the nation's political power will be concentrated.

Minseito Still Outside

Prince Konoye was expected further to seek wholehearted cooperation of influential figures representatives of all phases of the nation's life.

Until the projected national party is actually organized, a preparatory committee will be formed to work out the political programme of the new party, it was understood.

Meanwhile, it was virtually certain that the Kuhara and Nakajima factions of the Seiyukai Party are ready to dissolve their organizations to cooperate with the projected national party. It was learned that the Kuhara Faction will hold a national convention on July 2, and the Nakajima Faction a similar meeting on the following day, to make preparations for their dissolution.

All other political parties, except the powerful Minseito, also have expressed their intention to cooperate with Prince Konoye by disbanding their organizations, it was stressed.—Domei.

Konoye, Yonai Rift

Tokyo, June 27.

A rift has been created between the Premier, Admiral Yonai, and Prince Fumimaro Konoye, who resigned the presidency of the Privy Council to devote his time to the single-party movement, because the Premier "strongly suspects" this movement, the "Asahi Shimbun" comments.

Proof of this statement, the newspaper says, may be seen in the fact that Admiral Yonai turned down Prince Konoye's candidate, Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, former Premier, for the vacant Privy Council presidency. Dr. Yoshimichi Hara was appointed instead, to the surprise of Japanese political circles.

Chief reason for the Premier nomination of Dr. Hara, the Asahi stated, is understood to have been his belief that the return of Baron Hiranuma to an important Government post might lead to the creation of an "axis" between Prince Konoye, the Baron and Marquis Kido, close friend of Prince Konoye, who was recently appointed Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal. This "axis," the Asahi points out, would be "disadvantageous to the Yonai Cabinet."—Havas.

American Defence Bill Becomes Law

Navy, Army Embark on Huge Expansion

Washington, June 28.

President Roosevelt yesterday signed a supplementary Defence Bill giving the United States' War and Navy Departments $1,480,000,000 in cash appropriations and authority to make additional contracts totalling $289,000,000.

This is in addition to the regular appropriations of $2,800,000,000 which Congress has voted for the Army and Navy for the coming fiscal year.

The supplementary Bill will enable the Navy to begin the construction of 22 new warships and speed the construction of more than 100. It will enable the Army to build thousands of new aeroplanes.—Reuter.

The supplemental defence measure includes the construction of three aircraft carriers, five cruisers and fourteen submarines. The navy was expected to allot contracts for the construction of these units immediately.

The measure also provides for the modernization and operation of 35 old destroyers and 36 submarines.

The Coast Guard will get nearly US$11,000,000 and the sea coast defence forces will receive US$3,000,000 under the programme.

The Civil Aeronautics Authority will obtain US$32,000,000 for a pilot training programme and the Treasury Department with be given US$47,500,000 for the purchase of strategic raw materials.

A total of US$150,000,000 has been appropriated and an additional US $50,000,000 has been authorized for the purpose of expediting the production of war materials on the recommendation of the Civilian Defence Commission.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation will receive US$3,500,000 to employ 500 agents to investigate Fifth Column activity.—United Press.

McNutt Says U.S. Must Keep Out of War

Indianapolis, June 28.

Mr. Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator, told the Democratic state convention here yesterday that "America has one supreme and mighty objective—we must keep out of the disaster of total war, in a world where isolation is impossible."

This must be done by the revision of the entire economic strategy of the United States, including trade relations with the Far East, South America and Europe, he declared.—United Press.

Children's Reading Room

The S.M.C has approved the recommendation of the Education Board that a Public Reading Room be established at the Cunningham Road Primary School site for the use of Chinese children in attendance at grant-aided schools.

It will be recalled that in May last the Council approved a site in Hart Road, Cadastral Lot 5969, measuring eight mow, for use as a children's playground and directed that urgent enquiries be made for a site suitable for the establishment of a children's reading room.

The Board having examined the plans of a number of sites submitted by the Commissioner of Public Works, decided that the Cunninghan Road Primary School site is the most suitable and recommended to the Council accordingly.

Underground Command For Panama Post

Project Said Designed As Communications Centre

Panama, June 28.

An underground "command post" is being constructed at Quarry Heights—the Canal Zone military headquarters—to house the Zone's communications centre, the United States Army Headquarters announced here yesterday.

The project, however, is part of routine construction programme planned months ago, the announcement said. Congress this week passed a bill providing for a third set of locks on the Canal and other improvements in the Zone.—United Press.

Saridon

Saridon always stops any pain in less than 10 minutes and is perfectly safe and harmless

Below are a few of the many testimonials from prominent Doctors recently received:

"Saridon goes straight to the seat of the trouble — and nowhere else. Saridon has no by-effects on stomach, heart or kidneys. It does not induce drowsiness, and thus never interferes with the patient's daily duty."
Dr. S.P.K., M.D.

"Your Saridon is a great scientific discovery because it always banishes pain in 10 minutes or quicker and overcomes malaise; Saridon also reduces febrile temperature, but does not affect normal temperature."
Dr. K.P.C., M.D.

"With great confidence I prescribe Saridon because Saridon is the quickest-acting non-narcotic analgesic on the market and because Saridon is always reliable and perfectly safe."
Dr. L.S.T., M.D.

"Saridon is excellent. It does more than what is claimed for it. Can be used with impunity even in cases of failing heart."
Dr. T.M.T., M.D.

"I find that Saridon gives better results than anything that I have used outside of opiates which are often objectionable in many ways and not as satisfactory as your Saridon."

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

RUSSIA AND RUMANIA

With the Russian ultimatum to Rumania, a new development is occurring in Rumania which might have an important bearing upon the future history of that country. It is not uninteresting, therefore, to sketch what has already happened, especially during and since the last war. Upon the collapse of the Russian Empire, following the revolution, a "National Moldavian Committee" was formed out of Rumanian elements in Bessarabia,—May, 1917. In August the Ukrainian National Rada recognized Bessarabia as a separate unit. The following October a Supreme Council for that area was set up, the various nationalities composing the population being given proportionate representation. Two months later this body declared an independent Moldavian republic and invited Rumania to send troops into the country for its defence. This was done, Rumania desiring to protect the large food depots which she had accumulated there. Russia protested and a state of war existed from January 28, 1918 until March 9, when an agreement was reached that Rumania should withdraw her troops. The following months, however, the Supreme Council again voted for political union with Rumania, though it was specified that Bessarabia should retain a large degree of autonomy. By the Treaty of Bucharest, the Central Powers sanctioned this arrangement in order to compensate Rumania for her other losses, but the scheme was never approved of by Russia, on the grounds that Rumania had not implemented her agreement to withdraw her troops, while the Ukrainian representatives on the Supreme Council had abstained from voting on the issue of political union with Rumania. When the Treaty of Bucharest came to be negotiated von Kuhlmann advised that only economic terms be imposed upon Rumania, but Czerin for Austria-Hungary took a different view, insisting that there should be territorial changes. The Dobrudja was ceded as far as the Danube, Bulgaria taking over the southern half which she had lost in 1913, while the northern half was to be administered by the Quadruple Alliance, leaving Rumania access to the sea via Constanza.

The Treaty of Bucharest also provided that the Rumanian army should be demobilized, except for eight divisions allowed to exist in order to maintain order in the country, while the Central Powers imposed such terms on the Danube, in the Rumanian oilfields and over the railways as would have placed Rumania in a state of economic slavery to them for years to come. The terms of the Treaty were so severe that Averescu's Cabinet hesitated to sign and eventually resigned. Czernin, however, brought such pressure to bear on the King, informing him that his dynasty might be imperilled if the Treaty were not signed, that a Germanophile Ministry was formed and the Treaty signed on May 7, 1918. It is interesting to recall what happened in Rumania after that,—for the famous story of the German diplomat declaring the terms were mild compared with those which would be offered to the rest of the Allies still has to be borne in mind. The Central Powers forced the Banque Générale to issue no less than Lei 2,500,000,000 in paper money and completely disorganized the finance of the kingdom; while its economic ruin was ensured by the exportation of sheep and cattle, the cutting down of the forests, and the dismantling of its factories. Fortunately this was not to last more than a few months, and on November 18, when the defeat of the Central Powers was assured a new Cabinet was formed under General Coanda which repealed all the laws passed by the preceding ministry, the King entered Bucharest twelve days later after the Germans had withdrawn in accordance with the terms of the armistice. Bessarabia was already incorporated in the country having abandoned all ideas of autonomy and her Council voted for unconditional incorporation on December 9, 1918. In Transylvania the Magyars had throughout the war ruthlessly suppressed the Rumanians who were in fact in the majority in the rural districts. The prisons were filled with suspects who were shot upon the slightest pretext, while a law was framed to expropriate in favour of alien immigrants the property of the widows and children of soldiers killed in action.

Then when Vienna repudiated the Hapsburgs, a great Rumanian assembly at Alba Iulia declared that henceforth Transylvania was a part of the kingdom of the United Rumanians, promising absolute national liberty to their fellow Saxon and Magyar citizens. To this the Saxons adhered on January 21, 1919, but the Magyar bishops held out until 1921 when they took the oath of allegiance to King Ferdinand. A general assembly of Rumanians in the Bukovina on November 28, 1918, had voted the union of their province with Rumania at a meeting held at Czernowitz. In 1919 Bela Kun's government in Hungary was not disposed to accept the Rumanian redrawing of the map, and endeavoured to fight the matter out, but against the Hungarian troops the Rumanians were successful, and, despite the prohibition of the Allies, actually occupied Budapest. The Treaties of St. Germain and Trianon recognized as Rumanian the predominantly Rumanian territories of the old Dual Monarchy, with the result that the new Rumania which had been carved out came into being, though Hungary continued to resist so that Rumania could not demobilize until April, 1921. It would seem that this action taken by Russia heralds the process of recarving Rumania. The demand for Soviet control of the two important ports of Constanza and Tulcea, both of which are in the Dobrudja would practically deprive Rumania of access to the sea, for with the return of the Dobrudja to the Bulgarians, in favour of which demonstrations are being held in Sofia, Rumania would be left with a bare fifty miles of coastline between the mouth of the Danube and Bessarabia. It is only to be expected that when it suits her purpose Hungary will demand the return of Transylvania, so that eventually Rumania will be reduced in size to what she was before the last war. The Russian terms are not so bad as those contained in the Treaty of Bucharest, but they are sufficiently onerous to place a great burden upon Rumania. What is of even greater importance is that Russia, timing her demands well, has at last entered into the Balkans in just such a manner as Italy especially wished to avoid. There is not now likely to be any active resistance on the part of Rome for it is preoccupied with graver questions, such as how to avoid defeat at the hands of the Allies, and the possibility of the Soviet securing paramount influence in the Balkans is not now one which can be lightly discounted.

U.S. Nomination Struggle

The thousand Republican delegates at the Convention at Philadelphia have decided upon who shall be their candidate for the presidency of the United States at the presidential election this year. They have chosen Mr. Wendel Willkie. Of the fourteen candidates for nomination eleven dropped out after the second ballot, leaving Messrs. Thomas Dewey, Wendel Willkie and Robert Taft in the running. Mr. Dewey headed the list as a result of the first ballot but in succeeding tests gradually lost strength, while the other two managed to increase their support, Mr. Willkie rising from 105 to 258 votes at the third ballot and Mr. Taft rising from 189 to 212. In the fourth ballot Mr. Dewey lost sixty-five supporters, and, releasing all his delegates, retired from the contest. By that time Mr. Willkie had moved into the leading position with Senator Taft fifty-two votes behind, and the tossing of Mr. Dewey's support which it was apparently thought would end the matter in favour of Senator Taft did not in the fifth ballot have the desired effect. Obviously if all Mr. Dewey's supporters still loyal to him had thrown their votes for Mr. Taft the struggle would have been over, for the suffrages of the two men combined would have topped the five hundred mark and given him the majority. That did not occur and on the figures of the fifth ballot, apart from those who still supported Mr. Dewey, there are still 143 votes which have to be accounted for, but 212 votes if the rewaining sixty-nine Dewey supporters are also taken into account. It is to be inferred that a great deal of negotiation was proceeding for the purpose of securing the suffrages of the delegates who appeared to sit on the fence after the first few ballots, undoubtedly waiting to see what each of the two contestants have to offer. Though at the time this was written the actual figures showing by how much Mr. Willkie beat his remaining opponent were not available, it is more than likely that out of the 143 uncertain delegates at the fifth ballot completely there were sufficient to offset whatever extra support Senator Taft received from the 69 delegates who voted for Mr. Dewey even after the latter had conceded defeat and released his supporters in the hope of assisting Mr. Taft.

The Spectre of Famine

A short sub-leader in yesterday's "Journal de Shanghai" fills one with pride at the unvanquished spirit of temporarily defeated but still unbroken France. Theirs is the more difficult battle now for they will have to fight the intangible weapons of starvation and oppression against which there can be little overt resistance. But concerning ex-President Hoover's proposal that a "third party" should attempt to feed the masses in Europe which are facing starvation in the near future, the "Journal de Shanghai" writes:

"'It is not enough to have good will,'" wrote Descartes, 'the important thing is to use it properly.' From the strictly logical viewpoint ex-President Hoover's proposal is not free from flaws and his generous suggestion has an element of danger in it.

The former president predicts that if the war should last many more months, Europe will be threatened with an appalling famine, worse than anything which has ever been known in history of human suffering. He has asked the British, German and Belgian Government to allow a "third party" to undertake the feeding of the unhappy masses, private charity being quite unable to cope with the situation.

Ex-President Hoover's fears are only too well-founded and one cannot think without a shudder of the horrifying fate which lies ahead of the countries ravaged by the war.

There is no doubt that Germany will accept Mr. Hoover's suggestion with alacrity; the feeding of the newly-conquered population is one of her gravest problems.

But, for precisely this reason, can England give her consent? Formerly, when a fortress was besieged, famine was, nine times out of ten the most potent weapon of the besiegers.

Total blockade is nothing more than siege-warfare on a gigantic scale. And Great Britain has every reason to believe that large-scale feeding of the peoples of Europe would benefit Germany more than it would the defeated nations.

And so impulses of humanity come into conflict with legitimate strategic considerations and a compromise would appear to be difficult to attain.

For us, whose minds are haunted by the terrible sufferings already undergone by our people and the thought of more to come, and who are torn with suffering and anxiety, we must do everything we can to help our own people. It is a sacred duty.

But other means are necessary and we must hope for them. Real charity can always find a way through difficulties—that charity of which it has been said: the heart has ways of which reason knows nothing.

"Building Undaunted"

A report on the work of the China Inland Mission for 1939 has been issued in the form of a booklet entitled "Building Undaunted," which gives one of the finest pictures of conditions in this country, naturally from the point of view of the Christian worker, that has so far come to notice. A general introduction gives a summary of the mission's activities—brief and to the point—and shows that, in the actual number of dollars, the mission's income is larger than it has ever been before. This fact is discounted, of course, by the general increase in prices as a result of the exchange, the war, and the higher standards of living which are being introduced in all parts of this rapidly changing land. In spite of all the other calls on the purses of the people of the world, the support for the mission's work by the western nations has been maintained, even increased—a sign which must be most encouraging to members of the mission, especially since one of the principles of the mission forbids any solicitation for funds. The report is divided into five main sections, dealing with "free" China, "occupied" China, General, Medical Work, and a conclusion by the Rev. G. W. Gibb, General Director of the mission, on "Facing the Future." Different features of the work in the interior are described by various members of the mission of a number of different nationalities. The result is an interesting review of the progress made; the dullness and customary statistical tables of an annual report being avoided. It is also to be noted that little emphasis is laid upon the many difficulties Christian workers in China have encountered since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities—difficulties which are well known to all those who have kept in touch with developments since 1937. Rather has the emphasis been laid upon the successes which have attended the work, which has often been carried on in dangerous situations and in the midst of open and sometimes uncontrolled opposition. In his conclusion, the General Director sounds a peal of encouragement:

> From this record of God's working we today may draw fresh courage. The present situation in China is beset with many difficulties, but we can fearlessly "go down against them," strong in faith and wielding the weapon of "All-prayer" .....As we face the future in this confidence, let us, like the singers before the army of Judah say, "Give thanks unto the Lord; for his mercy endureth for ever."

ALONG THE HIGHWAYS

June 27.—We have today received a cob of Indian Corn together with a request for information regarding the lack of kernels on the cob: the grower must have been very disappointed when he saw it for it is a very poor specimen. The subject is of general interest so we decided to refer to it in these notes and, at the same time, express the hope that other growers will not allow the tops of their corn plants to be cut off. Maize or Indian Corn is indigenous to Central America: it was found under partial cultivation at the time the New World was discovered and, strange as it may appear, it is unknown in a really wild state although some writers insist that it is found wild in the West Indian islands. The name Maize is derived from Mahiz, which was the name adopted or given to the cereal by Columbus. The male flowers are produced in a tassel-like arrangement on the top of the plant, whilst from the joints along the stem appear the "ears": there are generally from 2 to 4 on each stem. Seeds are neatly arranged in rows along a cylindrical substance which we call the cob, the whole being protected very effectively by a husk. Each seed on the cob has a small "eye" on its upper side and proceeding from this "eye" is a thin filament of silky appearance: the filament grows very long and extends from the end of the husk. Our crop of corn is dependent on the filament being permitted to carry out its duties in a proper manner, its work is similar to that of the pistil in our garden flowers. If it does not receive its share of the pollen which falls from the male flower on top of the plant, kernels will not be formed and the cob will be useless for the table. It sometimes happens that foliage is allowed to grow too thickly or plants are placed too close together; in these cases, the results are the same, some of the seeds are pollinated while others are not. In passing, we wonder whether Indian Corn is being used more in England as a vegetable these days: it deserves to be and it should grow well in the South.—W.J.K.

EDUCATION OF ADULTS

Business of the Teacher in World Affairs

The Association of Tutors in Adult Education concluded its annual conference at Hulme Hall, Manchester, recently with discussions on the teaching of international relations, led by Mrs. Barbara Wootton, director of studies for tutorial classes in the University of London, and on the freedom of the teacher, led by Mr. H. J. Laski, professor of political science in the University of London.

Mrs. Wootton critized the tendency in classes on international relations to take the existing "step-up" for granted and ask what was likely to happen, instead of how things could be improved. This power-politics treatment was natural in view of the topical interest which prompted people to study international relations, but it left the impression that such relations not only were, but must always be, conducted on an amoral basis of national interest camouflaged by ideals. Suggesting alternative syllabuses designed to correct these tendencies, she insisted that we must not leap after events; we must keep out initiative in education. "Our job," she concluded, "is to help people to get hold of their social environment and change it for the better."

Prof. Laski, speaking as one who had been "almost thrown out of more universities in more continents than any other person," said that it was the business of the teacher to promote in the mind of the student the ability to think sceptically about received hypotheses. The men who mattered in each generation were those who were able to ask the questions that made that generation uneasy. There was no such thing as an impartial teacher: the vital thing was that the teacher should not try to conceal his bias but should frankly admit it, state as best he could the case against it, and so give the student an opportunity to examine it and arm himself against it.

Modern Society and Security

"In a society that feels itself secure," he continued, "there will be considerable academic freedom, but in a society that feels itself insecure the probabilities are wide that all opinions that cut into the foundations of what those who rule believe to be the conditions of security will be challenged. The more remote a man's views seem to be from the centre of immediate discussion the less likely he is to be attacked." The techniques of control in this country were more gentle, more gracious in operation, and more hesitant in application than elsewhere, but it would be unwise to assume that the problem was not real.

He was disturbed by what he called the technique of pre-natal control in selecting appointees for academic posts, of which he gave examples, and by the influence of prospective contributors to endowment funds on the expression of political opinions by members of university staffs. This delicate and complicated problem would have to be faced when social conflicts deepened and universities needed financial renewal after the war. No university was complete unless its students were faced with contradictory teachings and thereby compelled to straighten out the noble confusion in their own minds. The existence of such universities was going to depend on society's feeling of security about its foundations. The graver its problems and the deeper its sense of strain the more difficult would be the maintenance of the atmosphere that progress in the social sciences required.

Russian Troops March Into Bessarabia

Soviet Demands Accepted by Rumania After Modification; Invading Army Pours Across Border to Occupy All Strategic Points

Bucharest, June 28.

WITH Soviet planes flying overhead, Russian motorized troops crossed the frontier and occupied three strategic towns in Bessarabia and north Bukovina this afternoon after the Rumanian Government had accepted an ultimatum for the cessation of the two important provinces.

Soviet planes landed at Czernovitz (Cernauti), capital of Bukovina, Kishinev, in Bessarabia, and the old port fortress of Akkerman which faces the Black Sea. The officers who landed from the 'planes presented the Rumanian military authorities with maps showing the new boundaries of Russia and Rumania, including the demanded Rumanian territories incorporated in Russia.

Russian motorized troops then started to cross the border and pour into the three strategic points.

Rumania agreed to the occupation of the three towns at 2 p.m.

Emergency Council

Rumania accepted the Russian ultimatum after King Carol had called an extraordinary session of the Council of Ministers to discuss measures to meet the Russian note received during the early hours today.

Russian sources here said that the new Soviet note modified Moscow's previous demands and that was why Russian troops had not attempted to invade Rumania last night after the original ultimatum had expired at 10 o'clock.

Rumania last night replied to the Russian ultimatum for the restitution of Bessarabia and Bukovina and rights of control over Constanza and Tulcea, leading ports, proposing diplomatic negotiations to settle the issues.

After a delay of several hours, Russia sent Rumania another note which was accepted today.

Four Days' Notice Given

The Soviets have agreed to give the Rumanians living in the areas to be occupied four days in which to decide whether to continue to stay there or leave, reliable sources said.

In order to reach Kishinev, Bessarabia, and Czernovitz, Bukovina, the Soviet troops had to cross the border and march about 30 miles.

Akkerman is the old port fortress at the mouth of the Dniester River. —United Press.

King Meets Axis Envoys

King Carol II conferred with the Italian and German diplomatic representatives here last night in a desperate effort to side-track the Soviet ultimatum—backed by massed Russian troops and planes—demanding the surrender of one-sixth of all Rumania, two vital naval bases and control over the Danube.

(Well informed quarters in Berlin said last night that Russia's demands on Rumania were made with the agreement of Germany and Italy on the condition that they could be carried out in such a way as not to cause a general war or economic disturbances in the Balkans.)

The German Minister to Bucharest left here last night for Vienna, where he was expected to confer with the German Foreign Minister, Herr Joachim von Ribbentrop.

German Help Said Promised

Reliable quarters said that the German Minister promised King Carol that "Germany will give Rumania every possible diplomatic aid," but no further assistance was promised.

The Crown Council met a second time late last evening and adjourned at 11.30 p.m. when the Soviet reply to the Rumanian proposal for negotiations failed to arrive.

At an earlier meeting the Council approved the Government's decision to send a note to Moscow agreeing to open diplomatic negotiations at any time and place set by Russia.

Two hours before the 10 p.m. deadline last night strong opposition developed in Government quarters to any capitulation to Russia and officials described reports that Rumania had already acceded as premature.

"Not Yet Yielded

Sources close to the former Foreign Minister, M. Grigor Gafencu, who is handling the negotiations with the Soviet Union, said, "Rumania has not yet yielded." Bitter opposition was growing because of the magnitude of the Russian demands, these sources said.

Meanwhile, it was understood that Russia stressed her desire to take over the territory peacefully. Thousands of Rumanians were reported to have already begun evacuating Bessarabia last night.

Reported Soviet Demands

The Soviet demands were:

1. The return to Russia of all of Bessarabia, the third largest Rumanian Province, with an area of 16,150 square miles, taken from Russia after the Great War.

2. Russia is to be given the two northern districts of Bukovina Province, with an area of 2,000 square miles, bordering on Russian Poland and once a part of Austro-Hungary.

3. The Soviet is to be given the Black Sea port of Constanza, which is Bucharest's chief outlet to the Black Sea.

4. The naval base at Tulcea, on the north bank of the Danube, near its mouth, is to be given to Russia.

5. Rumania is to turn over to the Soviet Union the Danube port of Giurgiu, 40 miles south of Bucharest. This would give Russia control of the Danube from the Bulgarian border to the Black Sea.

Earlier, authoritative sources reported that Bessarabia and northern Bukovina Province had been handed over to the Soviet Union without fighting and with the knowledge of Germany and Italy.—United Press.

Yugoslavia Stays Neutral

Belgrade, June 28.

The Government spokesman here last night said Yugoslavia considers the Russo-Rumanian situation a matter between the two countries concerned and that Yugoslavia will keep out of the negotiations.

"We have no treaties which require Yugoslavia to come to the assistance of Rumania," he said. "We regard the matter as an issue entirely between Rumania and Russia."—United Press.

President Roosevelt yesterday issue a proclamation empowering customs collectors to seize foreign and domestic vessels in United States ports or the Canal Zone.

Unofficial sources said the proclamation definitely applies to the French liner ss. Normandie, which is at present at New York.

The proclamation provides for the seizure and removal of the crew and the refusal of anchorage to any vessel if the President deems it necessary to safeguard the vessels against damage, to prevent damage to United States harbours or waters, or to secure the observance of the rights and obligations of the United States.—United Press.

Soviet Tightens Grip On Lithuania

Communist Party Declared Only Legal Group Now

Kovno, June 28.

Russia's influence in Lithuania since the occupation of the country by the Red Army is becoming more noticeable daily.

The Lithuanian Communist newspaper, "The Truth," said yesterday that the Communist Party is now Lithuania's only legal party.

There is no longer any room in Lithuania for the Catholic Party, the paper said. Even if the Communists are supporting the present Lithuanian Government, the paper said, they know that the Government is still working within the sphere of the Catholic system. Consequently, the paper said, it is not possible to have a free Lithuania.

The paper said the goal must be "to convert Lithuania into a Soviet Republic."

People Warned of "Rumours"

Meanwhile, the head of the official Lithuanian telegraph bureau warned the nation by radio against rumours affecting public order. He said the people should ignore such rumours as reports that the Government was planning to confiscate all private property.

Lithuanian officials said last night that "changes in public rights" in connection wtih the new situation, "will be achieved by a legal method."

"No one who is performing his duty need fear anything," one official said.

"Workers Militia" Formed

The Minister of Interior meanwhile issued a decree forming a workers' militia which will be charged with the duty of aiding police in maintaining order. The Militia will be armed the same as police.

The public has been ordered to surrender all privately-owned weapons within three days and all arms permits have been cancelled.

Semi-official quarters said last night that the Ministry of Interior also was drawing up a new election law which would provide for the election of representatives from rural areas. The new election system would resemble that in practice in Soviet Russia, it was said.—United Press.

Turkish Fleet Leaves for Black Sea

Hungary Sends Note To Rumania

Istanbul, June 28.

The Turkish Fleet was seen in the Straits of Bosphorus yesterday sailing for the Black Sea.

Travellers from Sofia, Bulgaria, reported heavy troop movements on the Turkish side of the border in the Edirne district.

While only certain section of the reserve classes in the Istanbul district were ordered to report for duty by July 1, authoritative sources said that the classes of 1910 and 1912 had been called up throughout the Anatolin district with the exception of the largest cities.

The majority of the troops was sent to Thrace where parachute jumping trials were held yesterday. —United Press.

Hungary Sends Note

Budapest, June 28.

Hungary's position regarding Transylvania has been communicated to the Rumanian Government, diplomatic quarters said here today, and it was understood that a reply was solicited within a limited period. Official quarters denied that Hungary had delivered any kind of "ultimatum" to Rumania.

Neither the Hungarian Foreign Office nor the Rumanian Legation here could be communicated by telephone, while it was understood that the air service to Bucharest was cancelled today. Train service, however, continued.

Meanwhile, air raid precautions were redoubled here as military planes flew over the capital throughout the night, acting as targets for searchlights.—United Press.

King Boris Sees Premier

Sofia, June 28.

King Boris last night received the Premier, M. George Kiosseivanov, and studied the report of the Cabinet meeting held earlier in connection with Russia's ultimatum to Rumania.

There was no confirmation here, however, of foreign reports that the Russian demands extended Russian domination to the Bulgarian coast.—United Press.

Italian Ships on Move

Athens, June 28.

An Italian Atlantic liner and several smaller craft have entered Santa Quaranto, southernmost Albanian port in a village fifteen miles north of Corfu, and it was feared that Italy might thus be sending troops to the Greek-Albanian frontier as a move answering Russia's threat to the Balkans, reports from Corfu said today.—United Press.

Hungarian Aims Reported

London, June 28.

Indications that Hungary was determined to obtain a slice of Rumania by demanding the cession of Transylvania area were seen in the statement made by the Hungarian Foreign Office spokesman, Exchange Telegraph reported from Bucharest today.

"Rumania has made a fatal mistake if she considers that by satisfying Russian demands she can escape Hungarian claims. When the time is ripe, Hungary will get fulfillment of her claims. Hungary is matching her policy with that of the German-Italian axis," the Hungarian Foreign Office spokesman said, according to Exchange Telegraph.—United Press.

Canada Ready for Ten Thousand Children

First Batch Expected from Britain in July

Ottawa, June 28.

The first 3,000 British children being sent to Canada for the duration of the war will arrive in mid-July, Mr. Thomas A. Crerar, Minister of Mines and Resources, informed the House of Commons yesterday. Additional groups, he said, would arrive at intervals of five days until July 25.

Mr. Crerar declared the British Government had been unable hitherto to estimate the total number coming to Canada, but he felt it would reach "very large dimensions."

Canada was prepared to receive any number of British children. The initial number the Dominion awaited was 10,000, but the number was not limited in any way.

Great Britain, Mr. Crear added, should release funds for refugees who could not support themselves in Canada. A Dominion-wide organization would be established to supervise the distribution of children, which would be carried out by provincial welfare bureaux.

Earlier yesterday, he conferred with provincial Ministers to consider plans "for a greatly expanded movement shold it become necessary."—Reuter.

London Welcomes G.O.P. Choice

Nomination Regarded as Swing from Isolation

London, June 28.

Political circles here today welcomed the nomination of Mr. Wendell Willkie as Republican candidate for the Presidency of the United States.

The political quarters were especially pleased over his nomination because among all Republican candidates he is known to be the one most favourable toward the Allies.

Although official circles were silent because politics were involved, the nomination was unofficially interpreted as indicating as a swing from isolationism in the United States.

The news of the nomination was received too late for the morning papers to comment editorially.—United Press.

An authorized source described similar rumours published in Rome newspapers as "a worthless canard."—United Press.

Evacuation from Dunkirk

Conditions during the Allied evacuation from Dunkirk, which will go down in history as one of the great feats of withdrawal ever carried out by any army, in the face of almost insurmountable difficulties, are illustrated in these two pictures. The upper picture shows soldiers wading out to the small boats which carried them to the transports, which in turn carried them to England. Below, troops photographed on the exposed beaches, where they were repeatedly machine-gunned and bombed, and had only the cover of the hollows in the sand which they could scoop out for themselves. These pictures were radioed from London to New York, thence sent by telephone to San Francisco, and from there put on the Clipper planes for the Far East.

H'kong Evacuation of Women And Children May Be Ordered

Radioed Instructions Received from Colonial Secretary; Japanese Stationed Along Border

Hongkong, June 28.

THE Secreary of State for the Colonies has advised the Hongkong Government that it may be necessary to evacuate women and children from Hongkong and Hongkong authorities today detained all ships in port for purposes of evacuation in the event an emergency arises.

The Government today broadcast the advice of the Colonial Secretary, but added that the Hongkong authorities viewed the suggestion without any alarm. The Hongkong Government, however, advised all persons affected by the order to become immediately prepared for evacuation, should a necessity arise for such a move.

The Hongkong Government in the broadcast announced that the women and children would be evacuated to Manila in the first instance. Plans for the evacuation of European women and children have been fully prepared, it was understood.

Although the evacuation of women and children has not started yet, the first phase in the evacuation programme was carried out this afternoon when ship clearances were cancelled. All ships in harbour were detained for an emergency.

Local military authorities reiterated that there was no cause for alarm and that the border situation was unchanged.

Informed quarters said the Government broadcast was made upon instructions of the Home Government, indicating that the Foreign Office was adopting a firm attitude regarding Japanese demands that transportation of supplies to Chungking via Burma cease.

The evacuation scheme, it was understood, calls for the embarkation of Army and Navy wives and children for Manila. Families of Government officials are to leave next and then women and children of pure European descent will be evacuated.

Army wives have already received preliminary notices explaining that it might be necessary for them to leave their husbands. The notices, however, stress there is no cause for alarm and exhorts the wives and children of soldiers to take a view of possible evacuation as a holiday."—United Press.

Tokyo, June 28.

In pursuance of their attempt to sever all communication between Indo-China and Hongkong, on the one hand, and Chungking, on the other, Japanese troops have made further advances in Kwangsi and the Hongkong area.

From the Indo-China frontier it is reported that Japanese troops, which started operations on June 17, have captured Lungchow, south-west of Nanning and are only about 15 miles from the border of Indo-China.—Reuter.

Reason for Closure of Bombay Revealed

Tokyo, June 28.

The complete closure of the port of Bombay by the Indian authorities on Wednesday was due to the fact that an Indian patrol vessel struck a mine by mistake, it was revealed in an official message reaching the Foreign Office today.

It was learned that the sweeping operations now are completed and the port will be opened by the end of the month.—Domei.

Republicans Nominate Mr. Willkie

Political Newcomer Outpaces Old Line Party Leaders in Poll

Philadelphia, June 28.

MR. Wendell Willkie, utilities executive of New York, rode forth from nowhere to win the Republican Presidential nomination on the sixth ballot at 1.02 a.m. today.

The utilities magnate and lawyer outpaced veteran politicians in the field and emerged a winner by a wide margin.

Mr. Willkie's nomination in the face of vigorous opposition by most of the old line party leaders presaged the most sensational election campaign in recent United States history.

Mr. Willie's nomination might conceivably alter the Democratic Party's strategy which apparently is now based on the expectation of nominating President Roosevelt to run for President again. It might even influence President Roosevelt's decision whether to be a candidate since Mr. Willkie favours almost an identical foreign policy to the Chief Executive.

Mr. Willkie's chief criticism of President Roosevelt's policy has been based on inadequate defence preparations to enforce a strong policy. He also mildly criticized President Roosevelt's "provocative statements."

Mr. Wendel Willkie

The convention recessed at 1.50 a.m. until 2 p.m. when the vice-presidential candidate will be selected.

There was no immediate indication upon whom the choice would fall.

Senator Robert Taft, who ran second to Mr. Willkie, said flatly that he would not take the vice-presidential spot. Mr. Dewey also was known to be out of consideration as Mr. Willkie's running mate, since he is from the same state as Mr. Willkie—New York.

Mr. Thomas Dewey, youthful crime-busting New York District Attorney, was an early leader, but he wilted under the dazzling pace set by Mr. Willkie.

At midnight, Mr. Dewey officially released his delegates, permitting them to back Senator Taft, who was closely trailing Mr. Willkie.

A few moments earlier Mr. Dewey's huge New York bloc cracked as 75 delegates voted for Mr. Willkie, whose nomination is almost unprecedented in Republican political annals.

Chances Rapidly Increases

He never has held an elective office and until a few weeks ago, his presidential candidacy did not exist. Then his supporters started a whirlwind drive that ended with this morning's victory.

The balloting showed Mr. Willkie gradually increasing his strength, with numerous delegations swinging to his support with every new ballot.

Trailing in third place behind Mr. Dewey and Senator Taft in the first three ballots, Mr. Willkie forged ahead in the fourth ballot, gaining 306 votes against 254 for Senator Taft and 250 for Mr. Dewey. In the fifth ballot he polled 429 votes, while Senator Taft gained 377 Mr. Dewey faded out with only 57.

Mr. Dewey led all candidates at the end of third ballot with 315 votes.

Mr. Dewey forged into the lead in the first ballot and held this position through the two succeeding ballots, but his support began to weaken after the first poll.

No Respite Given Germany By British Airmen

Further Extensive Raids Carried Out by Night Any Day Against Military Objectives

London, June 28.

GIVING the Germans no respite, British bombers carried out further extensive raids over German territory, both by day and night, in the last 48 hours, destroying or damaging aerodromes, oil refineries, marshalling yards, bridges and other military objectives, according to a communique issued by the Ministry of Air.

Despite German fighter attacks during a daylight raid into Germany on Wednesday, says the communique, an oil plant at Gelsenkirchen and railway sidings at Soest were bombed. One British plane failed to return from this operation.

Further bombing operations were carried out at nightfall, when British aircraft attacked the seaplane bases of Texel and Helder, and the aerodromes at Schipol, Walhaven and Dekooy in Holland.

The aerodromes at Dortmund, Bonn and Hangorf, near Muenster, and Langehagen, near Hanover, were also bombed. Attacks were made on a oil refinery at Cologne and an explosive factory at Ludwigshafen, near Mannheim.

Marshalling yards and railway junctions at Osnabruck, Rheydt, Hamm and Soest were hit.

Other bombers attacked docks, lockgates and bridges at Willemsford and Gnemuideh, in Holland. Two of the raiders failed to return.

Daylight Raid Effected

Yesterday, the communique continues, British bombers again raided Germany in daylight.

An oil refinery at Misburg, near Hanover, was hit and fires started. Other bombers attacked oil refineries at Bremen and a factory at Salzbergen. All the bombers returned safely.

British fighter patrols over France yesterday morning attacked two German aircraft, one of which they claimed to have destroyed.

Four members of the crew of a Heinkel bomber that participated in raids on Great Britain on Wednesday night were landed at an east coast port yesterday, thus confirming that three German bombers were destroyed in these operations. A fourth is known to have been seriously damaged.—Reuter.

Germans Raid Large Areas

The sound of heavy firing was heard. Alarms were sounded at 9 a.m. and 11.15 a.m.

Twenty-three civilians were killed and several wounded on Wednesday evening in the most severe of five raids, during which about 71 bombs were dropped. One bomb hit a bus full of passengers, most of whom were killed. There was some damage to private property.

The bombers were driven off by British fighters and anti-aircraft fire.

Most bombs dropped during other raids on Wednesday fell into the sea and uninhabited and non-military areas.—Reuter.

British Ship Sinks U-boat

Cairo, June 27.

The U-boat saw the British seamen taking to their lifeboats and came to the surface close by. The gunners aboard the merchantman thereupon went into action and, just a few minutes before they themselves were compelled to leave their ship, sank the submarine.—Havas.

British Press Urges Even Greater War Efforts

Mr. Herbert Morrison's Leadership Hailed, But Need for Increased Unification Seen

London, June 28.

While welcoming the daily increasing evidence of the Government's vigour, and in particularly, Mr. Herbert Morrison's speech in Parliament yesterday, the British press continues to urge the Government and people to even greater efforts.

The "Times," in this connection, says: "Day after day brings ocular evidence of the military resources which the turn of war has concentrated in this island. New classes have been, and are being called up. Veterans from Overseas are seen in the streets in their distinctive uniforms and testify by their appearance and bearing to the quality of the reinforcement which has reached the Home base so opportunely from the Dominions. Meanwhile, civilian armies in factories are beng recruited continuously. Speed in preparation is guaranteed by the new leadership, which industries are being granted. It goes forward under the protection defences elaborated during the past two years, and still more under the shield of valour and enterprise of the Navy and the Air Force."

The article in the "Times" concludes by pointing out the need for still greater unification and breadth of vision in the Home command.

Ruthless Determination

The "Daily Telegraph" writes: "In so vast an organization as the Ministry of Supply, the most essential condition of success is a ruthless determination, with a capacity for quick decisions. Mr. Morrison conveys the impression of possessing these qualities himself, in an eminent degree, and communicating them to others. He shows a live sense of realities in the device of appointing a Director of Special Enquiries, to discover what is amiss and secure correction. The country can indeed feel full confidence that those charged with the all-important task of supply are now really 'going to it.'"

The "Daily Express" declares: "Mr. Morrison's review, and the figures he quotes, show a magnificent effort by workers. So magnificent, that there is no harm in discussing the question of keeping up production quite calmly and coldly."

The article in the "Daily Express" concludes by discussing improvements and means in maintaining workers' efficiency, in the face of increasing air raids.

Aid for Eire Suggested

The "Daily Mail" points out the immense help which could be rendered Eire in case of an invasion, by stationing a mobile shock force in Northern Ireland, which could go to her assistance at any moment she requested.

Says the "Daily Chronicle:" "The Germans are now talking openly about what they are going to do to Britain by way of air attacks and an invasion. The idea is to get us 'jittery,' and thus pave the way for attacks. More than words will be needed to conquer these islands. We have only to cast our minds back to Mr. Churchill's recent review to realize the colossal difficulty the Nazis would face. That does not mean the threat is not immediate and grave. There is still a lot to be done, and all of it must be done. But our defences are too strong and our hearts are too stout for Goebbels to succeed in making us flesh weak."—Reuter.

Stream of Engines Of War From U.S.

Many Famous Types of Planes Reach Britain; Engines Also Coming

London, June 28.

"Besides all consignments of 'planes, arms and ammunition, we have drawn and are drawing from the stock of American aerodromes and arsenals, and we are receiving a steady and increasing stream of engines of war, particularly aircraft, made in American plants to our orders," said Mr. Herbert Morrison, Minister of Supply, broadcasting last night similarly to his statement in the House of Commons.

Lord Beaverbrook, Minister for Aircraft Production, told him that British orders had brought into the service of Great Britain's war machine every leading aircraft firm in the United States, and machines included the famous Hudson-Lockheed bomber, Douglas bomber, Brewster fighter, training 'planes and a large number of flying-boats besides Northrop bombers and Curtiss fighters released to Britain.

Great Industry Formed

Lord Beaverbrook, he continued, had said the growing orders that had been placed would mean that there would have been built up, on British initiative, a great aircraft-producing industry in the United States. Besides 'planes, many thousands of aero-engines were ordered from America last autumn and many more thousands recently.

In conclusion, Mr. Morrison emphasized the need to "steel our hearts and blunt the edge of that weapon of terror which is so persistently and deliberately used against us. Germany has never yet beaten a country which they had not first weakened and eaten away from within. They will never beat a country which they cannot intimidate, divide and corrupt.—Reuter.

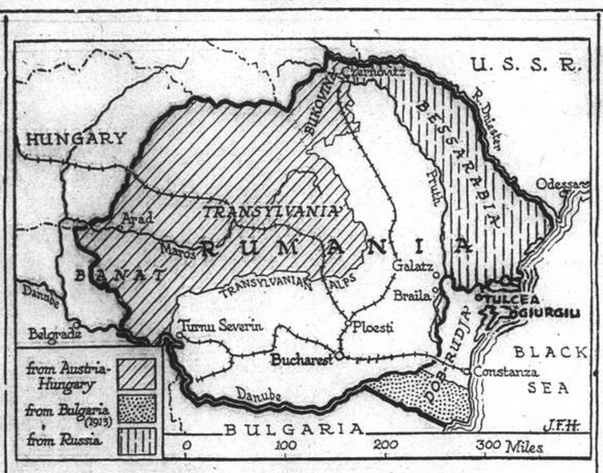
"Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet," which came to the Grand Theatre yesterday is definitely a worthy successor to "Louis Pasteur" and in a nutshell is the same type of film as the one that made Mr. Paul Muni known the world over. The current presentation, however, shows Mr. Edward G. Robinson in a role totally unlike any he has occupied before. In probably the greatest part ever allotted to him in his long career, he turns in a performance as Dr. Ehrlich—who must rank as one of the finest benefactors to human nature—a performance that stamps him immediately as peerless in his profession. Briefly the plot of the story deals with the never-ceasing struggles of Dr. Ehrlich in his fight to find the "magic bullet" which, when shot into the blood stream will exterminate humanity's most deadly scourge. How he finally achieves his life-long ambition after hundreds of his experiments have failed is told in a frank and absorbing manner that appeals by its stark simplicity. Mr. Robinson, of course, dominates the film from start to finish and never has he been seen to greater advantage. In fact in the closing scenes it is doubtful whether the most rabid theatregoer would recognize this wonderful actor, so different is he from anything he has been seen in previously. Great credit for a great film goes to Messrs. Warner Brothers, who have told the true story of a great man's life, its romance, its adventures and its many trials. Must be seen.—P.D.C.



Europe's Political Powder Barrel

War loomed in the Balkans, Europe's political powder barrel, yesterday, when it was reported Rumania had rejected Soviet Russia's demands for the cession of Bessarabia and North Bukovina province, but the threatened outbreak was averted upon Bucharest's later acceptance of the demands. Cables received in Shanghai late last night stated that the Russian troops already had occupied strategic points in the two areas. Meanwhile, however, the Turkish Fleet began moving towards the Black Sea, a convoy of Italian ships was observed in the vicinity of Greece, and was believed to be conveying troops, while Hungary was stated to have dispatched a note to Rumania, requesting a reply within a limited period.

Republicans Nominate Mr. Willkie

Gaining votes in each succeeding ballot, Mr. Wendel Willkie was threatening Mr. Dewey's lead at the end of the third ballot and observers believed his chances for nomination were increasing each hour. The third ballot gave him 258 votes.

Senator Robert Taft, who was expected to head the list before the balloting began yesterday, was running in third place at the end of the third ballot. Like Mr. Willkie, his support increased after the first ballot in which various delegations made tribute votes to the "favourite sons" of their respective states.

Senator Taft had 212 votes in the third poll.

The Convention began the task of selecting a Presidential nominee at 3.30 yesterday afternoon with every prospect of naming a candidate who would be pledged to support hemispheric defence and material aid to the Allies.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg was the only aspirant who received an appreciable nomination demonstration yesterday morning. Six nomination speeches were heard yesterday.

Whirlwind Drive

The sensational bid for nomination of Mr. Wendell Willkie appeared to be losing ground against the intensive efforts of Taft workers before the first ballot but he showed increasing strength once the voting began.—United Press.

Aim "To Make Men Free"

New York, June 28.

"Dark horse" nominee for the United States Republican presidential campaign by virtue of his last minute meteoric rise to power in the G.O.P. Convention at Philadlphia, Mr. Wendel Willkie has declared that he is a liberal and that a "true liberal's function is to make men free."

President of the $1,000,000,000 Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, he is now one of the most widely discussed personalities in the United States today.

Willkie—big, burly, blue-eyed and dark-haired—started his adult career as an attorney in Fort Wayne, Indiana, in 1919. He became president of one of the world's greatest utilities holding companies in 1933, when he was 41. A six-year fight with the New Deal over the Tennessee Valley Authority made him a public figure.

The qualities that distinguish Willkie from the general run of big business men, as they are popularly conceived, are the diversity of his intellectual interests and his "reasonableness."

New Deal Supported

The Willkie reasonableness was manifested recently in an address before the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York. The country's No. 1 enemy of the New Deal said:

"It is clear now that the system of 1929 can not be permitted to stand. Democracy . . . needs more social controls. These the New Deal supplied . . . The liberal cannot object to these reforms in principle." To this he added:

"The conscientious liberal would surely not rescind Securities and Exchange Commission acts and return that regulation to the states.

"He would not demand that the Federal government keep its hands off interstate utilities or utility holding companies.

"He would not challenge the wisdom of having the right of collective bargaining recognized by law. He would not say it was no concern of the Federal government whether or not the aged had pensions or the worker had unemployment allowances....

"What attitude, then, does the liberal take toward the present government?

Government Power Feared

"The answer is what it has always been. To the liberal the purpose of government is unchangeable. It is to leave men free....And the liberal does not see in the present administration any will to leave men free. He sees only an attempt to increase the powers of government.

On another occasion Willkie said a government "drunk with power" was at least as dangerous as business men similarly intoxicated and charged that "the abuses that corrupted the 1920's have been transferred from Wall Street to Washington."

Willkie did not nominate himself as a Presidential prospect.

"I am not in the slightest sense of the word a candidate for President of the United States," he said last April 4, "and I have not the slightest delusion about being nominated."

Last April 25 he admitted he was "honoured" by and "interested" in allusions to his political availability but said he was more concerned with the "principles in which I believe" than in any hypothetical presidential prospects he might have.

Of German Stock

Willkie was born 48 years ago in Elwood, Indiana. His grandparents came to this country after the collapse of a revolutionary movement in Germany. They spelled their name Willcke.

His parents were both lawyers, his mother having been the first woman admitted to the bar in Indiana. Willkie, whose boyish reading tastes ranged from poetry to the more abstruse sciences, developed a taste for law from his parents and, with it, a considerable training in liberal sociology. At 16 he helped his father, Herman F. Willkie, prepare a case for union labour in opposition to a picketing injunction.

In high school and college Willkie distinguished himself as a debater of a slightly radical tinge. He became a follower of the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette after hearing the Wisconsin Progressive speak.

During summer holidays Willkie earned money by working in harvest fields from Oklahoma to the Canadian border. The World War interrupted his efforts to get started in the law. He served in France with the 325th Field Artillery and after the Armistice joined the law firm of Mather and Nesbitt in Akron, Ohio, first practicing for a time in Fort Wayne.

Then A Democrat

Willkie was a Democrat in those days. Indiana party leaders wanted to get him into politics, but he resisted the temptation after receiving, from a trusted friend, the advice to "forget it." Otherwise, he might have run for Congress.

The firm of Mather, Nesbitt and Willkie had several utilities as clients. Developing into a brilliant trial lawyer, the junior member attracted the attention of B. C. Cobb, president of Commonwealth and Southern. In 1929, having fought the Ku Klux Klan to a standstill in the middle 20's and become a delegate to the national Democratic convention in 1924, Willkie permitted Cobb to persuade him to go to New York.

Four years later Willkie was President of Commonwealth Southern, at a time when utilities were a national scapegoat, in addition to being in bad condition financially.

Other utilities concerns were discharging salesmen. Willkie immediately hired 500 new ones. His campaign to stimulate consumption was so successful that in six years the Commonwealth and Southern companies had doubled their output. Sale of electrical equipment jumped from less than $5,000,000 in 1933 to $20,000,000 in 1937.

Established New Policy

At the same time, Willkie lowered rates and established a policy of co-operating with his customers instead of continually fighting them.

A leading New Dealer, now Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, once praised him for "adoption of a low-price, high-volume basis for his industry."

Since becoming president of Commonwealth and Southern, Willkie has received the relatively small salary of $75,000 a year—just what the President gets—has accepted no bonuses, has stayed out of the stock market and has assumed no directorships outside his own corporation.

Commonwealth and Southern had utilities in 11 states, including Tennessee, when T.V.A. began to expand under the New Deal. As representative of more than 200,000 Commonwealth and Southern security holders, Willkie felt their interests were in jeopardy and called upon the government to buy his company's Tennessee properties.

The T.V.A. contended he was asking $60,000,000 too much. He suggested that another governmental agency, the Securities and Exchange Commission, be asked to fix a fair price.

"Sensational" Offer

The offer was sensational, but the public reaction was favourable. Finally, after six years of bitterness, during which Willkie charged the government with holding up, by its "threatening" attitude, the expenditure of $2,000,000,000 for plant repair and expansion by utilities companies, the two sides got together on a price.

In November, 1938, Willkie was calling the T.V.A. "one of the most cruel un-American" agencies ever devised. By August, 1939, he was attending an almost gay ceremony in Washington at which the Commonwealth and Southern's Tennessee properties were turned over to the T.V.A. for the agreed price of $78,000,000.

Willkie's friends immediately hailed him as the hero of what they called a "one-man victory over the competitive inroads of the Federal government."

Transformed Into Republican

His long fight with the New Deal did not, apparently, affect Willkie's habitual good humour, but it did transform him from a Democrat into a Republican.

Before the change, in 1935, Willkie remarked that he wished he had back $150 he had contributed to President Roosevelt's campaign fund. Three of his Democratic friends in Akron, accusing him of having become a "plutocrat," at once offered to reimburse him and he accepted the offer.

All that was in a spirit of good clean fun, but last January it became apparent that Willkie was more than just "disgruntled" with the party. In the previous election, it was disclosed, he had registered as a Republican.

But Republican or Democrat, Willkie still considers himself a liberal, and a liberal is "a man who believes in freedom for himself and for other people."—United Press.

Japan Speculates on U.S. Fleet Moves

FROM PERCY WHITING
NCDN Special Correspondent in Japan

Tokyo, June 28.

The mystery surrounding the whereabouts of the American fleet since it left Hawaii has aroused the liveliest speculations in Japan. A supposition is that it is bound for Manila or Singapore, although this view is not generally held since it is not believed that President Roosevelt would fling such a direct challenge at Japan. It is thought more likely that the fleet is bound for Panama and South America, or for the Atlantic.

Squabble Between Local Italians

Merchant Captain Wished To Leave Ship; Feared British Blockade

There was trouble in the Italian community recently when Captain Guido Pezzini, in charge of an Italian merchant vessel in dry dock here, challenged a superior to a duel, and finally ended up with a suspended jail sentence. Captain Francesco Scarfi, a naval officer at the local Italian Consulate-General, gave evidence when the case was brought before the Italian Court for China. He stated that Captain Pezzini wished to return to Europe to enrol in the Italian navy, as he was loath to sail in his ship from Shanghai, fearing interception by British blockade vessels.

Witness went on to say that these remarks were made when Pezzini approached him with a view to joining the Italian navy. He added that if Pezzini had left Shanghai he would have been considered a deserter, and would not have been entitled to his fare to Europe as his employers, the Compagnia Italiana di Navigazine, had engaged him in Shanghai. In the course of this argument, which became increasingly violent, Pezzini was forcibly ejected from the Consulate-General.

"Wounded Honour"

Shortly after this two seconds from Pezzini called on Captain Scarfi, and presented a challenge from the former who stated that his "honour had been wounded." The matter was reported to the Consul-General, who passed the case to the President of the Italian Court. Pezzini was charged with criminal contempt of a superior officer, the two seconds being additionally charged. These stated that they had done everything possible to avoid the duel, and were acquitted. Accused was recommended for acquittal by the Consul-General on the grounds that the duel had not taken place, but he received a four months suspended sentence. His seconds were fined 130 lira each, but found not guilty.

British Chungking Consulate Wrecked

Japanese Planes Also Demolish Offices of Diplomatic Mission

Chungking, June 28.

Offices of the British diplomatic mission and the Consulate-General were made completely uninhabitable when Japanese planes again bombed "Consular Street" during a raid on Chungking at noon today.

The raiders, flying in three formations, heavily bombed the western suburbs of the city. The American Methodist Hospital in the western suburbs was hit. The operating room and X-ray rooms were demolished.

Mr. Philip Broadmead, Counsellor of the British Embassy, and Mr. Kenneth Millar were in a dug out of the British diplomatic mission. They were badly shaken but unhurt.

The building in which Reuter offices are located was bombed and set on fire but a fire brigade quickly had the blaze under control. The office equipment was removed to a courtyard. After the fire it was found the office could be used. The staff returned and resumed issuance of news services as usual.

The bombing both inside the city and in the western suburbs was extremely heavy, starting several fires in the lower city as well as in the western area. Many junks on the Yangtze and Chialing Rivers were sunk. Bodies were seen floating down-stream.

One Bomber Crashes

The "university district" was said to have been heavily bombed by three waves of Japanese aircraft yesterday noon. Greatest damage was done to he National Central University, where the laboratory building, workshop and faculty residences were demolished. There were no casualties, university students being away for the summer vacation.

Several raiders were said to have been hit by Chinese fighter planes and anti-aircraft fire. One Japanese bomber crashed in flames near Nanchuan, southeast of Chungking, after a brisk fight. The wreckage has been located.

The Chinese air force has been actively assisting the Chinese counter-offensive in the Ichang sector, bombing Japanese concentrations daily. Squadrons of Chinese planes carried out bombing operations on the Ichang front again today.—Reuter.

Assassins Kill Young Chinese Writer

Mr. Mu Shih-ying, a supporter of the reorganized National Government of China, was murdered by armed terrorists at about 7 o'clock yesterday evening.

Mr. Mu, who had left the offices of the "Central China Daily News," Chinese paper generally known as Mr. Wang China-wei's organ in Shanghai, and was approaching the corner of Foochow Road and Honan Road, when he was suddenly attacked by several gunmen and fell before the assassins' bullets.

The youthful writer had visited Tokyo last year as a representative of the China Film Company. Last month, he accompanied Mr. Chen Kung-po, President of the Legislative Yuan of the Nanking Government, on the official Chinese good-will mission to Japan. At the time of going to press the Settlement police were investigating the murder and no further details were available.

Russian Troops March Into Bessarabia

Moscow Aided by Axis

Berlin, June 28.

The Russian demands for the occupation of Bessarabia and northern Eukovina were made after Moscow had reached an understanding with Germany and Italy on the interests of the three powers in south-eastern Europe, well informed Nazi quarters stated here last night.

According to these quarters Germany and Italy made known their willingness to recognize Russia's territorial claims to make good "the injustices" of the last war, but stipulated that they must be carried out in such a way as not to cause a general outbreak of war or an economic disturbance in the Balkans.—United Press.

THE National Winter Clothes Fund-Raising Association decided, at a meeting held recently in Chungking, that the campaign for funds to buy winter clothes for Chinese soldiers would be launched earlier this year, according to the "Sin Wan Pao." Chinese in Shanghai have cabled Chungking offering to contribute $500,000 towards this fund, the paper says.

ON May 23, for the first time a woman barrister addressed the House of Lords during the hearing of an appeal—Miss Eileen MacDonald, well known at Manchester and on the Northern Circuit. She added that he insisted she must always be Victorian, as a shield against the wiles of other men. The wife said she obeyed her husband as she could not do otherwise. THE British Ministry of Home Security has announced an improved type of filter for respirators which will substantially increase their efficiency against the "smoke" type of war gases. The improved protection is given to existing respirators by adding the new filter, which is in a shallow tin box, to the end of the present container, and binding it in with adhesive tape. The box containing the new filter is known as contex (container extension). Supplies are going first to the more vulnerable parts of the country, and the rest will follow shortly.

ALIENS throughout Britain are now forbidden to possess firearms, ammunition or explosives without a special permit from the police. The Home Secretary has made an order to this effect. Every type of firearm, except air-guns, air rifles and air pistols, is forbidden, and any firearms, ammunition or explosives at present possessed by aliens must at once be surrendered to the police. The police are busy rounding up these firearms for safe custody. As soon as the order was signed Scotland Yard officers went to the London homes of all aliens to whom certificates for firearms had been issued and collected the weapons.

THE Japanese authorities will control the import of textiles and yarn in Tientsin as from July 1, according to a report received from the "Shun Pao." Fearing the consequences of such measures local merchants are not placing any further orders, it is said. Similar control measures over imports and exports were introduced by the Japanese over a year ago at Tsingtao, Weihaiwei, Chefoo and Lungkou in Shantung province, the paper continues. In these northern ports severe restrictions have been placed on cash transactions so that merchants are compelled to resort to the barter system which is inconvenient to both Chinese and foreign traders.

The bus, which is usually arranged for children coming to the Children's Service, will be discontinued until the re-opening of the Children's Service in the autumn.

Western District School Ends Successful Year

Review of Activities Given at Closing Ceremony; Best Results Achieved in School's History

THE Western District Public School celebrated the end of the school year with the distribution of prizes and certificates yesterday. The guest chairman was Mr. Victor Hanson, Professor of Political Science at the University of Shanghai and a member of the S.M.C. Education Board. He was supported by Mr. L. C. Healey (Superintendent of Education), Mrs. Healey, the Headmaster and Mr. J. H. Pyle (Senior Assistant). A large number of parents attended the function, and afterwards saw an exhibition of designs done by pupils during the current terms.

After giving away the numerous prizes and certificates, Mr. Hanson spoke on some aspects of education before, during and after school life. Before coming to school, he said, a child had already begun his education, particularly because he inherited one gift, the gift of language, that had been developed for thousands of years in the history of the race. He remembered that his (the speaker's) earliest ambition at school had been to grow as big as a boy of twelve. But he subsequently learned that that was not enough.

Referring to the drawings he had admired in the Art Room, Mr. Hanson recalled that other subjects, such as arithmetic, which could not always be exhibited to advantage, were of primary importance. Nor were the old-fashioned "three R's" sufficient. Language, he said, was the means and power of thought; he was glad to notice that many of the senior pupils had done well both in their own language and in French and Chinese. He advised his listeners to stress competition and co-operation in the forming of a real community in school and out. He concluded by congratulating the school and the headmaster on the year's successes.

Headmaster's Report

The Headmaster (Mr. P. W. Bennett) said:—"I should like to review briefly the work of the School during the year which ends today. If you will turn to the list of honours and awards on your programmes, you will see that we have had a full measure of successes. To mention them in turn, we continue to pass pupils through the First Chinese Examination of the British Chamber of Commerce. We have again entered a large number of boys for the tests of the Royal Drawing Society, but the results have not yet arrived. You may remember that last year we scored 100 per cent. of honours, a result that was reflected in the subsequent prize list. The R.D.S. awarded only twenty prizes at various centres outside British; of those this school secured three.

"As you know, one of our chief aims is for our pupils to gain the School Certificate of Cambridge University. With sixteen passes out of a possible seventeen, nine first grade certificates, and thirteen exemptions from London University Matriculation, this year's results are far and away the best in our short history. When I recall that they were achieved despite two masters having recently been on leave and Mr. Pyle having to shoulder my own work during the autumn terms, you will perhaps allow me to describe them as brilliant. The exemptions from London Matriculation have more than a conventional value. It is now possible to read for a London B.Sc. degree in Engineering at the Lester Institute. I am happy to report that some of our matriculants have been accepted for the engineering course there.

"Now, all these successes are, at least in a material sense, the crown and end of the school work. But they are not the beginning and the middle, and they are not won by a couple of years of cramming. They represent, indeed, the continued efforts of our pupils from the youngest upwards. They exemplify, better than I can express, the untiring skill of the whole staff. I feel that I am voicing your appreciation, as well as my own, when I say that the education of your sons, of whatever age, is in the hands of capable and devoted teachers.

Physical Activities

"On the physical side, too, we can look back on a year of excellent progress. The gymnasium, you will notice, is now fully equipped, with every evident benefit to the physique of all. In outside games, our lads have striven hard, whether in competition with other schools or amongst themselves. They have improved their records in swimming, field sports, cricket and other activities. We have unfortunately lost our playing field near by: I need hardly say what a loss that is, and I hope something will be done to replace it. Meanwhile, there is to be a much needed extension of our playground here, but it is by no means the size of a playing field. We are indebted to Mr. Paul Chryss for his enthusiastic services as Scoutmaster. And some people, too, think it is time that Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin gave other Packs a chance of winning the Fraser Shield.

"The Old Boys' Association has been well established. Its members recently held their first annual reunion, a most enjoyable function, the precursor, I hope, of many more in the years to come.

"It only remains for me to thank you for coming here this morning, and to wish the boys, one and all, a very happy holiday. They deserve it."

Sack Stealers Given Severe Sentence

Seven men found guilty of stealing more than $10,000 worth of gunny-sacks from an N.Y.K. godown at the beginning of the month were given sentences ranging from fines of $1,000 to two years' imprisonment yesterday by the First Special District Court. Excepting two, the other sentenced men were receivers of stolen goods in the French Concession where the booty was easily disposed of. The two actual thieves were, until recently employed by the godown management to do transportation work.

"Shanghai Times" Strike

Yesterday's issue of the "Shanghai Times" appeared in an unusually abbreviated form, and will probably appear so to-day, owing to labour agitation among its Chinese staff for higher wages.

Demands previously made were settled by the management on June 5 to the apparent satisfaction of the workmen, who a day or two ago pressed for further wage increases. These were promised consideration, but precipitate action was taken by the native staff, who are now out on strike.

Thirty-six locksmiths and coolies of the Heavy Metal Manufacturing Company, 25 Dalny Road, Lane 482, who went on strike a few days ago to enforce a demand for higher wages resumed work yesterday after the management of the company agreed to increase their wages by 22 per cent.

Hongkong Releases Held Up Rice

Bags from Saigon Which Were Delayed to Be Sent On to Shanghai

Private Chinese sources in Shanghai have received information from Hongkong stating that authorities in the Colony have agreed to allow Saigon rice stranded there to be transported to Shanghai, and the information has been received by Chinese circles with relief. It is taken to show that shipping traffic between Haiphong and Hongkong is not closed.

The ban recently placed by Hongkong has affected the rice situation in Shanghai very seriously, but executives of the Shanghai Rice and Bean Merchants' Association have met and decided to petition the Shanghai Municipal Council and British consular authorities here for opening negotiations with authorities in the Colony so that the 100,000 stranded bags of Saigon rice can be brought here.

It would appear that shipping traffic had been closed for a while, but now free transportation has been made possible. Chinese rice merchants here are reported to have asked French agents to buy Saigon rice for them, and about 5,000 tons of the foreign rice are said to be arriving here by July 10.

Foreign rice buying activities have been so accelerated that some British agents are reported by the Chinese press to have been approached by Chinese for buying rice from Siam. The order amounts to 13,000 tons, it is said. Several shipments of the rice are expected to arrive here by the middle of next month.

The Shanghai Municipal Council has officially replied to the Chinese Chamber of Commerce's request for official efforts to increase the supply of wheat in Shanghai. The reply promises official aid. The Chamber's request was recently made at the instance of a letter from the Noodle Merchants' Association asking for more supplies of wheat, as flour is much needed.

Pedestrians Wounded In Robber Chase

C.P.C. Opens Fire After Alarm Raised

Two Chinese pedestrians, a woman and a workman, were shot and slightly wounded by a Chinese police constable on Thursday evening at the North Chekiang Road Bridge when he fired at three robbers who were believed to be armed, while they were escaping from the scene of a crime.

The robbers gained entry into a shop at 882 Tiendong Road after it had closed down. They entered by the back door and took the shop assistants unaware. After stealing $344 in banknotes they left the shop and ran towards the North Chekiang Road bridge spanning the creek, followed by a young apprentice of the shop. The apprentice raised the alarm and asked assistance from C.P.C. 151 who was near the bridge and who gave chase. He fired a shot at the robbers when they ignored his orders to stop. As the bridge was crowded with pedestrians at the time, the shot missed its target and hit a woman and a workman. Both were hit on the left leg and suffered superficial wounds. They were taken to the Lester Hospital for treatment, but were not required to stay longer. No arrests were made.

Property to the value of $300 was stolen by three robbers, two armed with pistols from 704 Foochow Road early yesterday morning. The robbers intimidated the occupants of the house with their weapons, but did not fire any shots and made good their escape.

Ingenious Swindlers Arrested

Played on Credulity of Small Boy

Two suspected swindlers posing as magicians were brought before the First Special District charged with attempted fraud, in which they intended to victimize a ten-year old school boy who tried to learn the magic way of "catching birds alive" from them near the boy's home in Kiaochow Road on Thursday. While teaching him how to catch birds, they themselves were caught by the boy's father who happens to be a well known lawyer, Mr. Kuo Chao-chi.

Although originally they asked for five cents for their magic lesson, they noticed that the boy Kuo Pan-chieh came from a well-to-do family and therefore tried to make him pay much more under threat of illness or death. The lad was given a sheet of yellow paper on which a prayer was written and it was explained that the charm would not be of any use unless some gold or a $10 note was presented to the god. He was asked to keep the matter to himself, for otherwise he would be ill or die.

The boy returned home, trying to find some gold ornaments to fulfill the demand, but as he could not find any, he began to cry. His crying attracted the attention of his father who, after learning what it was all about, stepped out in time to arrest the crooks—a married couple by the way—and send them to the Bubbling Well police. Since it was suspected that they might have victimized other boys, hearing was postponed to July 6 to facilitate further investigations.

Chinese Urged to Go Back to Siccawei

Following the evacuation of the French police from the Siccawei sector, new Chinese police authorities in the city have posted an announcement urging people to return to the area which they have taken over. The exodus of Chinese residents there started before the evacuation, but the Chinese police have promised protection and ordered the residents, including many Chinese Catholic church members, to return and continue their business.

In order to safeguard the Catholic church area, a new branch police station will be created by Colonel Pan Shi-wen, head of the Siccawei Police Station. Temporarily, he has assigned six policemen to look after the area but when further arrangements are completed, more policemen will be assigned to work there. Six instead of the present four branch police stations are the aim of the Shanghai Special Municipality police. The two new stations are to be located in Hungjao Road and the Catholic church area in Siccawei, Chinese reports reveal.

S.M.C. School Fees To Be Raised

Surcharge for Foreigners 75 Per Cent. Chinese Also To Pay More

The Shanghai Municipal Council has approved the recommendation of the Education Board that with effect from September 1, 1940, the fees at the Municipal Schools be increased as follows:—

(1) Foreign Schools.—That the existing surcharge of 25 per cent. on school fees be increased to 75 per cent.

(2) Chinese Schools.—(a) Secondary.—That the fees inclusive of surcharge be increased from $40 to $55 at the Nieh Chih Kuei School and from $48 to $65 at the other four schools.

(b) Primary.—That the fees inclusive of surcharge be increased as follows:—

$9	increased to	$14
$8	,, ,,	$12
$6	,, ,,	$ 9
$5	,, ,,	$ 8
$3	,, ,,	$ 5
$0.50	,, ,,	$ 1 (Night School).

In April last, when approving the Education Estimates for 1940, the Council directed that the Education Board be requested to give early consideration to the practicability of further raising school fees.

At its meeting on June 14 the Education Board gave consideration to the matter. It was noted that surcharges of 25 per cent. and 15 per cent. came into force as regards foreign and Chinese schools on November 1, 1939, and in the spring term of 1940, respectively. There was no doubt whatever but that educational expenditure has very largely increased since these surcharges were approved by the Council in October 1939. While the major part of educational expenditure must continue to fall on the rates, it was felt that taxpayers as a whole have every right to expect that the very small section of their number who have children attending the municipal schools should be required to make a reasonable contribution towards the greatly increased cost of education. After careful examination of the statistics submitted, the Board decided that the increased fees as recommended above be enforced.

Chinese Leaps from Y.M.C.A. Building

Former Amoy Engineer Commits Suicide

Having lost his life work as chief engineer of the Amoy Power Company which he started many years ago and which has been affected by Japanese occupation of the port, Mr. Sun Shih-tsen, a 48-year old Chinese returned student from America, committed suicide by jumping from the fifth floor of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. in Boulevard de Montigny.

The tragedy occurred on Wednesday when the late Mr. Sun was paying a visit to a friend living in the Chinese Y.M.C.A. dormitory. The friend was absent at the time and after waiting for a while Mr. Sun climbed up to a window and lept to death in a head-on collision with the ground.

As Mr. Sun has left no letter behind indicating the reasons for the suicide, Chinese circles believe that it might have something to do with the shock he received some time ago when his power house in Amoy had been taken over by the local authorities. Mr. Sun was a member of a well known family in Fukien. His brother is chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce in Foochow.

An inquest has been held over his body by Judge Chao, procurator of the Second Special District Court. The body has been turned over to his elder son. Mrs. Sun was so shocked by the sudden death of her husband that she could not appear during the inquest.

The world's finest rubber development laboratories perfected this TOUGH tyre tread to resist the grinding-away action of rough roads and hard paving.

WITH every turn of your car's wheels, the road beneath scuffs at the tyre treads and grinds off the surface. The tougher that tread is, the longer it will last. And the tough, stubborn rubber in the thick tread of the ALL-WEATHER TREAD tyre is specially compounded to resist that grinding-away action. Thus, the tread design lasts a long time, giving you greatest protection against skids and long trouble-free mileage. Fit a full new set of ALL-WEATHER TREAD tyres and get this extra value.

Yesterday's Business

Weekend closing operations constituted the main business of yesterday's market which, after a quiet opening, snowed a good improvement in the volume of shares turned over. There was, more-over, a more optimistic tone at the close which may have been induced by short covering, but there was definitely new buying in evidence.

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 27.

The cotton market early advanced on trade and speculative buying and shorts covering. Later, prices moderately reacted on profit-taking and liquidation. Finally, the market again rallied on more outside enquiry and closed quiet, with quotations ranging from 4 to 7 points up.

Prices in the rubber market today advanced on an improved speculative demand, factory and commission house buying, steady cables and a scarcity of offerings. At the close, quotations ranged from 5 to 30 points up.

After early advancing on some mill buying, wheat futures in Chicago today reacted on realizing, hedge-selling, increased receipts and favourable weather reports. At the final bell, losses of 1 to 1 1/8 cents were recorded.—Reuter.

Thursday's Closing Quotations

New York, June 27.

Stock prices on Wall Street today ruled quietly firm, with gains ranging from fractions to 1 point. Trading was dull and featureless, with operators keeping to the sidelines awaiting clarification of European uncertainties and the outcome of the Philadelphia Republican Convention.

Business news continued to be accelerating, but sentiment continued to be cautious and mixed.

Rails, steels, airlines and aircrafts were the best performers.

The turnover today amounted to 440,000 shares.—Reuter.

Dow-Jones Summary

By courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Traders took to the sidelines today pending the settlement of the Rumanian situation, but stocks maintained their firm tone. Utilities advanced preceding the Philadelphia balloting of Mr. Wendell Willkie. Commonwealth & Southern, common, eased, but the preferred moved three points higher. The largest volume was recorded in Packard on the Rolls-Royce engine order. Steels, chemicals, aircrafts, mercantiles and rails ruled higher. Car-loadings increased contra-seasonally.

Stocks:—The continued firmness is a favourable indication, but, if Mr. Willkie fails to get a nomination, a sharp reaction is likely. Railroads are placing large equipment orders, and approximately $70,000,000 worth of contracts were placed this week.

STATISTICS

	Week Ended 22/6	Week Ended 15/6
Department of Labour's Wholesale commodity price index	77.1 (per cent.)	77.4
Car-loadings (Assoc. of Amer. Railroads)	728,000 (cars)	712,000

DIVIDENDS

Babcock & Wilcox 0.40

Cotton:—Conflicting influences restricted operations to small trade transactions. Encouragement by persistent peace rumours was offset by the threatening Rumanian situation.

Wheat:—Displayed early strength on reports of the poor quality of some of the early receipts and the further spread of black rust, which met with the usual lack of aggressive support. A Government estimate places the domestic supply at 1,000,000,000 bushels, indicating a carryover of 325,000,000 bushels. It is rumoured that the Winnipeg market will be closing for the duration of the war.

Corn:—Followed wheat on reports that liberal July tenders are contemplated.

Rubber:—Narrow advances on small buying were seen. Washington advises immediate negotiations for heavy Government purchases of rubber and tin, some of which are to be diverted from recent European consumer countries.

Hides:—The market was narrow and trendless, but responded to small orders either way.

Sugar No. 4:—Ruler very quiet. 90 tenders are expected on Friday.

Easier conditions prevailed on Wall Street during the current period under review though volume of trading still continued small. Selling was attributed to a number of factors: firstly, fears that Germany, with France completely under her domination, will soon launch a drive against Great Britain; secondly, the proposed limitation of profits to an 8 per cent. maximum on Government Navy and plane contracts; thirdly, the belief that the $1,000,000,000 Tax Bill is but the beginning of tax measures designed to finance defense expenditures, and lastly, old guard opposition to Wendell Willkie, who is Wall Street's favourite for the Republican nomination. In Wednesday's session early declines were partially wiped out on continued excellent business news. The market Thursday marked time pending the choice of the Republican nominee and the settlement of the Rumanian situation.

Commodity prices, as measured by the Dow-Jones 11 commodity index, declined. Easier conditions prevailed in the Chicago wheat market. Peace rumours and Mr. Herbert Hoover's reference to European relief needs kept prices within a narrow range, while the trade awaited some decisive factor. It was rumoured that the Winnipeg market will be closing for the duration of the war. Corn futures sagged under pressure of liquidation of the December option on excellent crop prospects. In the cotton market trade buying of nears and covering by short interest absorbed speculative and foreign liquidation. Rubber moved lower on the weakness of Singapore, more liberal shipment offerings and July liquidation. Prices failed to respond to reports that the United States Government was negotiating for the purchase of 100,000 tons. Outside interest remained small. Hide futures were heavy on small trade demand. Sugar prices ruled weak with small liquidation uncovering stop-loss orders.

The latest issue of the magazine "Iron Age" reports that steel operations are currently at 88 per cent. of capacity without taking into account defense orders. The publication also indicates the possible buying of from 50,000 to 60,000 cars by railroads during the next few months. Scrap prices at Pittsburg have been lowered 50 cents a ton. Car loadings are up contra-seasonally to the highest level of the year, with Pennsylvania Rail Road's net operating income last month placed at $6,900,323. The company is planning a $10,000,000 equipment programme. Earnings of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe last month were $631,637 and New York Central $2,873,605. Norfolk & Western has announced an $8,000,000 equipment programme. Westinghouse orders for the half-year were reported to be 25 per cent. over those of 1939 with backlog placed at $85,000,000. Competent observers estimate that automobile production for the current month will be about equal to that of May. Packard Motors has issued a statement that the company has received a British Government Rolls-Royce engine order after Ford had declined the proposal.

Stock Outlook: Until the many uncertainties, both domestic and foreign, become less obscure, it is indeed hazardous to forecast the direction stock prices are likely to move in the near future. Technically, the action of the market suggests that a secondary rally from the May lows is still in progress.

London Stocks

Thursday's Closing Quotations

London, June 27.

An all round improvement was noted on the London Stock Exchange today, owing to brighter interpretation of war news.

Industrials recovered a good part of recent losses, with leaders showing considerable gains.

Kaffirs were quietly absorbed, while base metal issues sympathetically advanced. Oils ruled stronger.

British gilt-edged securities were quiet and mainly firm.—Reuter.

SHIPPING NEWS

Due at Future Dates

All vessels are listed under their terminal port. The first date is that of the ship's departure from that port, and the second is the date she is due to arrive in Shanghai. Where a ship's name is duplicated it indicates the port of call last visited.

On account of the present international situation there is considerable interference with movements of ships, especially those from Europe. In cases where it is definitely known that the vessel is not running to schedule the Shanghai arrival date is omitted.

Land Certificates Issue Ending

Former Official Joins New Regime; Parleys Concluding

Negotiations between the foreign Consular Body here and Mayor Fu Sino-en for the transfer to him of the land certificates in the custody of the Shanghai Municipal Council are reaching a final stage, it was learned yesterday. The surrender of the certificates is now only a matter of days.

The negotiations have been protracted and have been carried on for some time. Following the closure of the land office of the Chungking Government here, Mayor Fu has established another land office which has for one of its chief executives a former official of the old land office.

The suspension of the former land office followed soon after the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities. Ever since, transfers of property owned by Chinese and foreigners under Chinese jurisdiction could not be legalized. A halt was called to the realty boom in Shanghai owing to the depreciation of the Chinese dollar. Property and land sales to a great extent became a matter of personal trust, the bills of sales being recorded in the notary office of the First Special District Court, without any official deeds changing ownership.

Despite the abnormal situation many sales of property in the Settlement and French Concession were recorded, the seller being required in most cases to furnish the buyers with the proper undertaking that he would transfer the land certificates to the new owners as soon as they became available. In many cases the lawyers of the contracting parties acted as guarantors.

Germans Apathetic Over Victory

People Drugged with Too Much Propaganda; Tired Of Horrors of War

Stockholm, June 28.

Newspapers here publish an article by a special correspondent "On a Victory Which Lacked Enthusiasm."

"Germany," the article begins, "has won one of the most rapid and completest victories in history. One would think that this victory would arouse the German people, depressed after a hard winter and living on ersatz food, to rapturous enthusiasm. But this was not the case—all one heard was a small sigh of relief."

"The writer was in Rome when Italy declared war, there was no sight of enthusiasm. When the Germans entered Paris he was in Berlin, and the 'rejoicing' described in Swedish papers was, in fact, inaudible. The German people read the news but made no comment and displayed no joy. The same thing applied when Marshal Petain (French Premier) announced the French surrender.

Too Much Propaganda

"What was the reason for this remarkable reaction in the face of events perhaps decisive for the future of Germany? One should think that the German people just now are very tired after a difficult winter, after living on short commons and with many privations. Tired after tremendous trumpeting of official propaganda.

"In the last war, the home front collapsed; so in this war, the home front has perhaps been accorded too much attention; propaganda is tiring the people. From early in the morning till late at night, the German radio roars in houses, on squares, in villages, forests and mountains. War reports, analyses and commentaries, all coloured with anti-Allied propaganda, are spitting forth invectives against the Allies. Most powerful of all is the film—films are made by propaganda units working in the firing line. These films are astonishing but overwhelming. Every detail of raging warfare is presented—prisoners, wounded, dead, ruins, explosions, etc., all accompanied by a flaming Nazi propaganda monologue. The result is too strong for the public who become numb and apathetic. They do not feel pride over German arms but only horror. And at the end of the film, there is no applause, no cheering—the public is silent. No one cares to rejoice over victory after seeing such pictures.

"It appears that the German people are growing immune to the propaganda poured on them day after day.

Invasion of England

"France is defeated and England remains. France was never hated, but the English are hated. Various methods of attack on England are being discussed—a landing with rapid, small boats after aircraft have bombed fortifications and the secret 'freezing method' (used against Eben Enael and the Maginot Line) has put the breech-pieces of coastal batteries out of action; a blockade from the air by destroying import harbours; a mass landing of troops by parachutes and planes.

"But the fact remains that the German people are not enthusiastic over the war. They wish to return to their normal life and to work to raise their living standard; to cease seeing long Red Cross trains moving to hospitals at night-time; to cease seeing obituary notices in papers showing that the ranks of Germany's youth are being thinned.

"Meanwhile, how can a nation that has concentrated on war for six years return to a life of peace? How can a great military camp become a peaceful community? Even if Germany attains a dominant place in Europe, there will still be many problems left for her to solve. And the war is not yet over—it has been said 'England loses every battle, except the last'."—Reuter.

British People Asked To Aid War Effort

Appeal to Nation Made By Mr. Ernest Bevin

London, June 28.

A statement asking all British men and women whose normal activities have been interrupted by the war to take part in work vital for national defence was published here last night by Mr. Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labour.

For men, it was added, there is the army where volunteers are always needed, particularly specialists, and the civilian defence. Furthermore, there are several industries needing workers partly specialized in certain tasks. The Government is willing to recruit and train these workers.

In the House of Commons earlier in the day, M. Bevin announced 10,700 persons were being trained for special work by the Government.

Mr. Bevin also announced in the House that the Ministry of Labour was studying with the War Ministry the possibility of asking local authorities to invite volunteer workers to cooperate in urgent defensive tasks against an eventual attempt to invade the country. These men would engage in this work in evenings and during week-ends.

The formation of a Factory Welfare Department was also announced in the House by Mr. Bevin.—Havas.

Italy Restricts Coffee

London, June 28.

The Rome Radio announces that the sale of coffee to private households and restaurants in Italy will stop as from July 1, and that all coffee reserves will be held exclusively at the disposal of armed forces and hospitals.—Reuter.
